Resolution is Passed at Annual Convention Being Held Here

A.F.U. Urges Cancellation of Soldier-Settlers' Debts

Province Is Petitioned To Intercede on Behalf Of Great War Veterans

Calling for the provincial government to intercede with the Dominion government on behalf of some 6,000 soldier settlers who served in the first Great War, a resolution passed by the Alberta Farmers' Union convention Tuesday afternoon asks that indebtedness of these soldier-settlers be cancelled.

The resolution notes that "upwards of 6,000 soldier settlers", veterans of the last Great War, are petitioning the Dominion government to give them a clear title to their lands.

It carries a special clause limiting its provisions to bona fide war veteran soldier settlers and their widows or children.

Cash Bonus of $1,000 Asked

The petition now being circulated by the 6,000 veterans asks for a cash bonus of not less than $1,000 for the first year, and $50 for each additional month of service for all members of the armed forces who serve outside of Canada. It will be circulated to all Alberta Farmers' Union locals for signature.

Complete text of the resolution passed is as follows:
Whereas upwards of 6,000 soldier settlers, veterans of the last Great War, are petitioning the Dominion government to give them a clear title to lands held by them under the jurisdiction of the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada;

And whereas these same 6,000 settlers are all that are left of an original 24,000 soldier settlers, most of whom have, by coercion, been forced to give the government quit claims to their land;

Petition Government to Intercede

Therefore, we petition the Alberta provincial government to intercede with the said Dominion government, that they give these veteran settlers release from their indebtedness, and that this same privilege be given to their widows or children whether living on said lands or otherwise.

In those cases where lands have changed hands restitution shall be made based on the actual value of each and every one of these properties. It is to be understood that this resolution shall only apply to bona fide war veteran soldier settlers and their widows or children and under no circumstances shall apply to persons who may have purchased what has been legally known as Soldier Settlement Board lands.

All of the above to be made retroactive to September 3rd, 1939.

The petition being circulated by the soldier settlers, referred to in the union's resolution, follows:

To the government and members of parliament of Canada.

We, the undersigned citizens of Canada, being aroused by the sad plight of many of our country's ex-service men and the failure of the soldier settlement scheme to provide the security of a home for the majority of those operating farms under its provisions, after many years of struggle and hardship by those who served our country well in its hour of need and to which our government has been unable to bring the required measures of relief to provide the security of a home; therefore:

Demand Board Be Abolished Forever

1—We hereby petition the Dominion government that title deeds to all lands now held by soldier settlers under contract with the board in any way be issued by the director of soldier settlement and that the soldier settlement board be then abolished forever;

2—That no land settlement scheme be undertaken by the government for those now serving in our armed forces but, instead, a cash bonus be paid to all members of the armed forces who serve outside of Canada of not less than $1,000.00 for the first year, and $50.00 for each additional month of service. This amount to be paid to all members of the Army, Navy and Air Force, irrespective of rank.

3—That the government devote its full energies towards bringing about the economic and social reforms so urgently needed so that our men and women returning from active service may be able to adjust themselves to the pursuits of peace in harmony with all other citizens of this great new country.

4—We further believe that the future well being of our country depends upon our government giving favorable

Election Today

2 Will Contest Presidency of Farmers' Union

James Jackson, Irma, who has just completed his first term as president of the Alberta Farmers' Union, and Chester O. McGowan, Hairy Hill, former union president, stood for election to the organization's presidency, after receiving nomination Wednesday morning at A.F.U. convention sessions in the Masonic hall.

Eight names were submitted when nominations were thrown open to the floor of the convention, but six withdrew, leaving the issue to Mr. Jackson and Mr. McGowan, who is now a vice-president.

Both contested the 1943 elections for the union presidency, and Mr. Jackson was elected, with Mr. McGowan being named a vice-president.

Those nominated to the president's office for 1944 were Mr. Jackson and Mr. McGowan; Henry Young, a union director from Millet; A. McDonald, director from Spirit River; H. Kelly, Millet; William Hawrelak, Jr., Wasele, a vice-president; W. G. Logan, Holden, a vice-president, and R. N. Russell, director from Athabasca.

TO VOTE

The election for president was to take place at 2 p.m. Wednesday, and was to be followed later in the afternoon by nomination and election of four vice-presidents.

At 6:30 p.m., a convention banquet was scheduled to be held in the Masonic Temple, following which F. T. Appleby, Pinkham, Sask., president of Saskatchewan section, United Farmers of Canada, was to speak. Short addresses by fraternal delegates were to bring Wednesday night convention sessions to a close.

Soviets Seize Vital Northern Rail Junction

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Red Army has captured Krasnogvardeisk, five-way railroad junction 25 miles southwest of Leningrad, giving new impetus to a Russian drive rolling the Germans westward on a 100-mile northern front, Moscow announced today.

Premier Marshal Josef Stalin issued an order of the day hailing German defenses on the Leningrad front. The city of 42,000 fell to Soviet storm troops last night, opening the way for a drive into the Baltic States.

Krasnogvardeisk, also called Gatchina, had been converted by the Germans into a fortress with an extensive system of permanent defenses, Stalin reported.

LAST GREAT BASTION

From Krasnogvardeisk trunk railways radiate to Tallinn, Estonia, to Pskov at the lower end of Lake Peipus, to outflanked Tosno Eastward, and up to the Leningrad area.

The fortress was believed to be the last formidable stronghold in the Leningrad system of fortifications anchoring the German defense line running down to Lake Ilmen.

With that base reduced, Govorov was expected to be able to wheel his fast-moving units in behind the line and take the sting out of the defenses to the south.

Germans to Seize All Mail Bearing Patriotic Slogans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—German authorities have advised the United States state department they will confiscate mail for American prisoners of war when the envelopes bear patriotic slogans. This was disclosed yesterday by Postmaster General Frank Walker, who said the state department is "Protecting this interference with the delivery of mail to our men." To assure delivery of mail, Walker said, such slogans as "V for victory," "Win the war" and "Buy war savings bonds and stamps," should be avoided.

A.F.U. Endorses Principle Of Affiliating With Labor

Endorsement of the principle of affiliation with the trade union movement, and strong condemnation of the present Canadian freight-rate structure were voiced in two resolutions passed at the Wednesday morning sitting of the Alberta Farmers' Union convention, held in the Masonic Temple.

The union affiliation question arose when a resolution submitted by Three Lakes Local, stating that the time had arrived when closer co-operation should be sought with all trade unions, and that affiliation with trade unions would give the backing "sorely needed," was taken under consideration by delegates.

A. M. Allen, representing a joint local committee of all railroad employees, made a strong plea Tuesday night for delegates to affiliate their union with a recognized trade union movement. He also called for unity among Alberta farmer groups.

LONG DISCUSSION

His address was followed by a lengthy question and discussion period, and further discussion was held over until Wednesday morning, when the Three Lakes resolution was submitted.

After some discussion, a substitute resolution was submitted by Henry Young, Millet, which endorsed the principle of trade union affiliation.

Trustee Opposed Flag Saluting Regulation Stands, School Board Rules

The present regulation of the Edmonton Public School Board that all pupils be compelled to salute the flag during school patriotic exercises will stand.

This was ruled by members of the board at a meeting Tuesday night after discussion of a request made by the Edmonton Consumers' league asking the board to rescind the present regulation and to reinstate a grade four pupil who was recently expelled for refusal to participate in the exercise.

Trustee F. J. Newson opposed the ruling stating that while he did not entirely agree with all the views expressed by the Consumers' league he felt that it does not add to respect for the flag when a child is compelled to salute.

Stalin Receives Word From Son Held Prisoner

CAIRO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin's son, Jacob, has sent a message to his father from a German prison camp by a Yugoslav officer who escaped, a source close to the Yugoslav government said last night.

The message was said to have been carried by Captain M. Uroshевич belonging to the forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, the government's war minister. Uroshевич, captured in 1941, was in the same camp as Stalin's son until his recent escape, the informant said. Contents of the message were not disclosed.

Action Against Spain Is Hinted

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Britons were told yesterday that British patience with the dealing with the Axis by Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish dictator, is nearing an end and the press appeared to be preparing the country for some drastic move against Spain, possibly economic sanctions.

"If Franco does not take vigorous action to stop sabotage of British ships, such as placing of time bombs in orange ships, and other unfriendly acts, we may act against Spanish economic interests," said Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

The Express said Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador to Spain, would "give Franco a last warning before action is taken."

Significant, too, perhaps was the report in the London Star that Antonio Torres, a BBC broadcaster to Spain whose political commentaries were stopped after representations by Franco, would return to the air.

Committee Report

Suggest Railway Outlet to Coast From Peace Area

By KENNETH R. HOOD
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—The parliamentary committee on reconstruction and re-establishment tabled its report in the House of Commons this afternoon, with suggestions for post-war employment and large-scale developments in western Canada and the Maritimes.

The report noted that men of the armed services and the merchant marine are entitled to assurance that the government is prepared to prevent any recurrence of mass unemployment in Canada, and it added "that the committee felt it is well within the power of governments and industry to maintain full employment for all Canadians during the period of transition from war to peace time activities."

Among other recommendations, the report listed:
Construction of an all season trans-Canada highway which would be connected with all provincial and United States highway systems.

Construction of highways leading from northern Alberta and northern British Columbia to the Fort Norman oil field and the mineral areas of the far north.

Construction of a network of roads in the mineral areas of northern Canada to enable proper utilization of all natural resources.

Construction of a railway line from the Peace river country of British Columbia and Alberta to the Pacific coast.

"Without it," said the report, "Canada will lose a great part of the value of the coming exploration and development of the northwest portion of the Dominion, opened up by military air routes and the Alaska highway."

Hospital Ship Sunk by Nazis

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—CBS correspondent John Daly said in a broadcast dispatch from Allied advance headquarters in Italy last night that three hospital ships in Anzio Bay, "lighted up like Christmas trees," had been bombed by German planes and that one of them was sunk.

Aboard a destroyer standing off the beach at the time, Daly reported that the warship had intercepted a message from the hospital ship Leinster, identifying the sunken vessel as the hospital ship St. David.

He said the Germans used the new glider bombs, torpedo-bombers, dive-bombers and high altitude bombers in the attack.

Lloyd's register lists the St. David as a 2,702-ton, 327-foot vessel built at London in 1932.

Attention Given Social Security, Post-War Works

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The federal cabinet has given close attention to recommendations of parliamentary committees and other investigations on post-war reconstruction and social security, it was stated today in the Speech from the Throne at the prorogation of the fourth session of the 19th Parliament.

The references in the speech, read by Hon. Thibault Rinfret, new Chief Justice of Canada, acting as deputy to the Governor-General, were taken as indication of early legislation and action in these fields, details of which will open the fifth session tomorrow.

The prorogation ceremony was held in the senate chamber after members of the House of Commons had been called to the upper house to hear the speech.

SPECIAL MENTION

Lower Temperature Is Forecast Here

In spite of snow flurries that fell over the city Tuesday morning accompanied by a north wind, the threat of heavy snow did not materialize. The snowfall was very brief and light and just a trace was officially registered. The wind which blew at an average velocity of 15 miles an hour lasted from 9 a.m. till 3 p.m., but a slightly lower temperature was the only result. The maximum temperature registered Tuesday was 28 degrees above zero and the overnight low 3 degrees above zero. Temperature at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday had risen to 6 above. The forecast for today and tomorrow is still "Fair with stationary or a little lower temperature." At 2 p.m. the temperature had risen to 20 above zero.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Winter hit the comeback trail in Western Canada last night and early today, blasting premature signs of spring with cold winds and snow.

Alberta recorded the lowest temperatures. Districts in Manitoba and Saskatchewan showed about one and a half inches of snow—the heaviest fall of the season.

The coldest spot in the west was Red Deer, Alta., with an official 11 below and thermometers still on the downgrade. Calgary was three below, and Jasper and Lethbridge were under the zero mark. Medicine Hat reported continuing mild weather and light snow.

The wind in Winnipeg reached a velocity of 25 miles an hour overnight but was subsiding this morning. The temperature was 24 above.

Fortify City As 5th Army Drives Ahead

By ALDO FORTE
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

BERNE, Jan. 26.—The German high command intends to defend Rome and has started digging trenches and setting up strongholds in key positions in the city, Italian frontier reports from Milan, which still is in telephonic communication with the capital, said today.

(In London, informed military quarters believed that the showdown in the battle for Rome might come within the next 48 hours. Whether the showdown would take the form of a pitched battle between the Garigliano River and the Nettuno beach-head, or a withdrawal of the German line to the north of Rome was conjectural. It was regarded as extremely unlikely, however, that the Germans would give up Rome without a fight.)

Despite Rome's proclaimed status as an open city, air raid alarms are being sounded whenever Allied planes appear, the reports said, and the Germans already are blowing up buildings which impede their plans for defence of the city.

Dispatches said it was generally feared that Rome and Vatican City would soon be without water, electricity or gas.

The Nazi high command has placed Rome under a stage of siege and Italian patriots have begun a reign of terror against the Germans in the city.

Immediate Action to Overcome Shortage of Farm Machinery Urged

By KENNETH R. HOOD

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Immediate remedial action to overcome the "very serious" shortage of farm implements "at the earliest possible date," was urged by the War Expenditures Committee of the House of Commons in its report on conditions relating to agricultural implements and repairs supply, which was tabled in the house today.

A.F.U. Endorses An Affiliation Trade Unions

affiliation, and called on the union executive to investigate possibilities of such a course.

Mr. Young's substitute resolution, which was carried, is below:

Whereas co-operation between the organized farmers and the trade union movement would greatly increase the strength of both movements; therefore be it resolved that this convention endorse the principle of some kind of affiliation with the trade union movement and instruct our executive board to investigate and try to work out some plan to that end, while at the same time safeguarding the autonomy of this organization. Such a plan to be submitted for approval either to the next convention, or to a referendum of the membership of the Alberta Farmers' Union.

In moving adoption of his resolution, Mr. Young said, "We are all interested in the question of trade union affiliation, if we can get it on a basis satisfactory to our members. It would be a fatal mistake to discard the idea altogether, and my resolution simply endorses the exploration of such a plan."

VITAL QUESTION

G. M. Nuhachev, a delegate from Hairy Hill, said "This is a vital question which will affect the whole country. The greatest consumers of goods are laboring people and the farmers, and we should support the idea of co-operation with labor unions."

"We have a common enemy—the financial interests that have tried to keep farmers and labor apart. The mortgage corporations, the manufacturing associations, and the bankers do not fight each other. Let us go ahead and take steps to co-operate with other trade unions."

An amendment which would have sought amalgamation with the United Farmers of Alberta before investigating possibilities of union affiliation, was rejected by the convention.

LOST MEMBERS

"The U.F.A. lost 3,000 members in the last year, and if we waited another year, there would be nobody to amalgamate with," a delegate said, before the amendment was voted down.

The freight rate resolution, passed early Wednesday, is below:

That whereas we Canadian prairie provinces, and the province of Alberta in particular, have been subjected by authority of the government of Canada, to the imposition of crushing railway freight rates as well as inland bound, whereby the trades, industries and agriculture of this province have been penalized and their success obstructed;

Be it resolved that this convention records its determination to promote by every constitutional means, the establishment of a Dominion-wide internal marketing system whereby equalization of freight rates per ton per mile, or their equivalent, may be established on the railways of Canada.

That in pursuance thereof we consider that Alberta shippers should not be prejudiced and caused financial loss through the unfair incidence of such railway freight rates.

That the shipping of feed grains to the Province of Ontario for sale as at present, whereby hog raising in the Province of Alberta has been obstructed, is unfair, and if continued, should be applicable to the producers of the other prairie provinces.

That we consider the continuance of special privileges in respect of railway lands to the government of Canada whereby the taxation base of the province and many municipalities has been narrowed.

That we consider the Dominion of Canada is duty bound to give relief in respect of railway freight rates to Alberta and its sister provinces of the prairies, because Alberta public lands and minerals were in a large part alienated for the purposes of main line construction.

"There is ample factory production capacity in Canada to adequately handle a much greater volume of implement production than we now have," said the report, which revealed that in the pre-war period, Canadian factories produced only 38 per cent of the volume of farm machinery used in Canada.

The committee, however, acknowledged that there were a number of problems which must be overcome before increased production of implements could be realized. The problems were listed as a shortage of malleable casting iron due to the volume of war production work in Canada; a shortage of ball and roller bearings; a shortage of seasoned fir and oak required for the production of certain types of farm machinery; and a shortage of experienced manpower.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

As a result of the investigations of the committee, which included the taking of evidence from representatives of manufacturers, agricultural organizations, Wartime Prices and Trade Board and munitions department officials, the committee recommended:

1.—That every possible assistance and encouragement should be extended to producers of farm machinery to increase substantially the production of implements and repair parts, and that special emphasis be placed on the production of labor saving devices.

2.—That "active steps" should be taken to stimulate the production of malleable iron castings and that if necessary subsidies be paid to permit the industry to supply the present urgent need.

3.—That National Selective Service continue to give careful consideration to the manpower requirements of agricultural implement manufacturers.

4.—That farmers be advised that additional implements will be available for the 1944 season so they may place orders in sufficient time to permit equal distribution of the available supply.

5.—A "careful and thorough" study of the possibility of manufacturing "a much higher percentage of Canada's agricultural implement needs."

The report added that in view of the tremendous industrial development brought about by the war, and in view of the "dominant position" which Canadian agriculture holds with respect to food production, "it is unthinkable that Canadian manufacturers should continue to supply only 38 per cent of the farm implements used in this country."

Such an industrial expansion would "fit in with the Canadian reconstruction policy and program," it was stated.

O.K. Experiments With Aluminum

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—The War Production Board yesterday gave United States industry a green light on experimentation with aluminum in post-war models of civilian goods. The decision is expected to stimulate research and development of lightweight automobiles, refrigerators and other durable goods items on which actual model-building has been at a standstill because of W.P.B.'s previous refusal to allocate aluminum for this purpose.

That in Alberta, the transfer of railway lands amounted to 13,120 acres.

That as Alberta imports in round figures about 80 per cent of all goods sold from extra-provincial points the incidence of these railway freight affects every home in this province.

Thus hardware and canned goods from Montreal to Edmonton and Calgary pay two and one-half times the freight rate on the same goods transported from Montreal across the mountains to Vancouver.

That we note for the information of our people and deplore that between 1934 and 1937 the freight on scrap metal, iron and steel from Edmonton to Vancouver was $5 a ton per car of 40 tons, and this applied on shipments to Japan, while today the rate recently if not now in effect is $10 per ton for carload lots of 50 tons, although the gravest national emergency exists, and this convention demands an enquiry and report as to the cost of collection, packing, shipping and freight on all salvage collected and contributed by our people, and any incidental charges thereon against the nation in this time of stress and trial.

Complete naval dominance and air supremacy permit daring invasion of Germany itself from the North Sea coast or through Denmark, unfeasible in World War I because of Germany's strong navy and coast defences which could fend off invasion fleets far from shore. (The Cairo radio said that the Allies had captured Velletri, strong point on the Apennine Way 19 miles southeast of Rome. Swiss dispatches said the Nazis had declared a state of siege in Rome. Reports from the new beachhead said Allied tank units were driving northward above the Mussolini Canal.)

Mounting German opposition to the drive against transport lines between Rome and the old Fifth Army front was attributed to the removal of Nazi "battle groups" pulled northward to counter the invasion threat.

BRIEF COMMUNIQUE

The daily communiqué by Gen. Sir Henry M. Wilson devoted but a single sentence to the swift Allied advance beyond the Nettuno-Anzio beaches:

"In the northern beachhead, British and American troops have continued to press forward against gradually-increasing resistance."

Headquarters of Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, Allied commander on the Italian front, still declined to disclose the width and depth of the beachhead, though a spokesman yesterday said it extended to within 25 to 30 miles of Rome.

British United Press correspondent James Roper reported from the Garigliano front some 70 miles southeast of Rome that an American patrol had entered the outskirts of Cassino, keystone base of the Gustav line, spotted a lone German sentry, and ducked for cover when enemy artillery in outlying heights opened up.

APPEARS ABANDONED

Thus it appeared that the Nazis had abandoned Cassino, the core of resistance on the entire Fifth Army front. Field correspondents also reported a tendency on the part of the Germans to pull back generally along that line.

In the Tyrrhenian sector of the old front, British troops advanced at several points and captured Ceracioli Ridge, two miles west of Castellote. There was no word of the fate of Castellote, a few miles inland above captured Minturno.

In some of the fiercest fighting since the Fifth Army struck in force two weeks ago, a heavy German counter-thrust was beaten back by the French Monday, but the next day the Nazis again attacked and forced the French off.

(The Cairo radio said that the Allies had captured Velletri, strong point on the Apennine Way 19 miles southeast of Rome. Swiss dispatches said the Nazis had declared a state of siege in Rome. Reports from the new beachhead said Allied tank units were driving northward above the Mussolini Canal.)

Mounting German opposition to the drive against transport lines between Rome and the old Fifth Army front was attributed to the removal of Nazi "battle groups" pulled northward to counter the invasion threat.

BRIEF COMMUNIQUE

The daily communiqué by Gen. Sir Henry M. Wilson devoted but a single sentence to the swift Allied advance beyond the Nettuno-Anzio beaches:

Attention Given Social Security, Post-War Works

hopes entertained of this development in the organization of parliament have been so fully realized.

"In the session just concluded," the speech said, "careful study was given by select committees of both houses to the problem of full employment after the war and, in particular, to the establishment in useful and remunerative employment of the men and women of our armed forces and in war industries."

"Careful study was similarly given by select committees on social security to the most practicable measures of social insurance and the steps which would be required to ensure their inclusion in a national plan which itself would include the establishment of a nation-wide system of health insurance."

"My ministers have given close attention to the recommendations of the select committees and to other investigations in the fields of post-war reconstruction and social security."

PROMISE FULFILLED

The promise of impressive victories indicated by United Nations initiative a year ago had been fulfilled, said the speech.

Axis forces in North Africa had been destroyed, Europe had been invaded and Italy had surrendered. The Russian armies are relentlessly driving back the Nazi invaders. Japanese threats to Australia and New Zealand had been removed. The enemy submarine campaign in the North Atlantic had been brought under control.

"On both sides of the globe," it was noted, "the United Nations have maintained supremacy at sea and gained ascendancy in the air."

In the campaign against the U-boats the Canadian Navy took a prominent part and the speech noted that Allied naval forces in the northwest Atlantic had been placed under a Canadian commander-in-chief (Rear-Admiral L. W. Murray).

MUTUAL AID

Under mutual aid legislation, the speech noted, supplies are being sent to Russia, China, France and other members of the Commonwealth. Month by month, wheat is being sent to Greece to aid in feeding the population and steps have been taken to ship wheat to India to assist in relieving famine conditions in Bengal.

"During the year production reached the highest level in Canada's history," the speech stated. "About half of the total has been devoted to war purposes."

Appreciation of the service of those engaged in farm and other forms of production was expressed. The meeting of manpower needs by voluntary methods and selective service was "facilitated by the patriotism and the skill of the vast majority of workers, both men and women, and by the co-operation of the provinces, local authorities and voluntary organizations."

The price ceiling has been "splendidly maintained." The wage control order had been simplified and strengthened. Consultations are proceeding with the provinces on a code of labor relations.

Canada's growing status in international affairs had found expression in expansion of the consular and diplomatic services and the raising of legations abroad to the status of embassies.

Argentina Breaks Off Relations With Axis

By W. W. COPELAND

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 26.—The Argentine government broke off diplomatic relations with Germany and Japan today, charging that the Axis had committed a deliberate act of aggression against Argentina by fostering a vast network of spies throughout the nation.

Aluminum Co. Is Exonerated Of All Charges

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The House of Commons war expenditures committee, in a report tabled today, said that "none of the allegations" made against the Aluminum Company of Canada last year by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, is substantiated by the facts.

In a lengthy review of Mr. Coldwell's statements in the House and evidence heard during an inquiry last year, the report said:

1. An agreement made between the government and the company on taxation was "provident" for Canada.

2. The Aluminum company dominated the Canadian aluminum production field but domination was not synonymous with monopoly. The aluminum industry had been able to produce and sell aluminum at constantly lower prices to the consumer.

CLAUSES NOT USED

3. Restrictive clauses in agreements with power firms had not been used to prevent other companies obtaining power to produce aluminum, and one such clause had been removed from a Canadian agreement recently.

4.—Because of a limited post-war market for aluminum, the company faces the possibility of idle plants and power facilities representing a capital investment of more than $200,000,000. Depreciation granted for taxation purposes was justified. Idle plants might have to be torn down after the war.

5.—Company developments, such as the Shipshaw power project on the Saguenay river in Quebec, had to be undertaken in haste and at additional expense because of the urgency of obtaining aluminum for war purposes.

6.—The committee found labor conditions at Arvida, Que., and other company plants were good.

7.—The committee felt the government was not the most effective or desirable agency to carry on the aluminum industry. No public moneys had been spent by Canada on the aluminum plants.

The report was tabled by Hughes Cleaver (L. Halton), committee chairman. It was written by Roy T. Graham (Lib., Swift Current) who headed the sub-committee which visited Arvida and other Aluminum Company plants.

The report summarized Mr. Coldwell's statements in the house last June.

The C.C.F. leader has said price charged the United Kingdom, the United States, Australia and Canada indicated undue profits; that the terms of taxation agreement between the Canadian government and the company represented a "gift" to the company; that labor conditions in Alcan plants were bad; that the aluminum companies of Canada were part of a world monopoly and that the whole transaction was imprudent from the Canadian viewpoint.

Mr. Coldwell, a member of the committee, which held its sittings in camera, did not endorse the report.

REPEATS CHARGE

(In a statement issued today, Mr. Coldwell said he repeated his charge that the "people of the United Nations were being sold down the Saguenay (the Saguenay river at Arvida, Que., is the site of the Shipshaw Power Development) by the aluminum agreements."

"The committee in its attempt to whitewash the aluminum deal has succeeded only in making itself ridiculous."

(In denying the existence of a monopoly, the committee "puts itself in the position of the man who on being shown a giraffe solemnly declared that there wasn't any such animal," the C.C.F. leader said.)

Under an agreement of Feb. 2, 1940, the United Kingdom gave Alcan a 20-year three per cent loan of $29,900,000 to assist increased production. Further loans of $9,700,000 and $16,000,000 were arranged with the price of aluminum lowered from the original 20 cents a pound f.o.b. smelter to 18 cents on May 1, 1941.

On March 6, 1942, the United States made a new contract with the company, in which two previous contracts for 340,000 metric tons of aluminum were replaced by one calling for 453,597 metric tons. Two loans of $25,000,000 were replaced by a down payment of $50,000,000 in United States funds, to be retired at the rate of five cents a pound of all aluminum delivered. On April 1, 1942, a still further contract for 167,839 metric tons.

Foreign Minister Col. Alberto Gilbert announced the move in a broadcast to the nation at 9:50 o'clock this morning, after a series of hasty conferences with diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, the United States and Germany.

The Argentine foreign office immediately informed the German and Japanese ambassadors that their passports were being prepared, and police guards were placed about the Axis embassies.

Gilbert said an official investigation had revealed the existence of a widespread spy ring, directed through the German and Japanese embassies.

"All this activity shows clearly a deliberate plan by the Axis governments to use the territory of the republic as the centre of their illegal activities, with complete disregard for their obligations toward the Argentine republic and for the dangers such activity could cause to the neutral country in which they carried on such activities," an official announcement said.

The statement said the German and Japanese diplomatic representatives in Argentina would be held "personally responsible" for harboring and directing enemy agents in the Americas.

At the same time, government leaders indicated that drastic steps were being taken to smash the far-flung spy network whose activities over the last two years have cost the Allied powers heavily in lives, shipping and war material.

Britain Won't Recognize Any Border Changes

LONDON, Jan. 26. — (CP) — Foreign Secretary Eden re-affirmed today the British government's policy not to recognize "any territorial changes which have been effected in Poland since August, 1939."

Mr. Eden thus made it clear Britain was determined not to recognize any change in Polish territory as it was before the German invasion of that country Sept. 1, 1939, and subsequent Russian sweep into eastern Poland.

Referring to a statement on non-recognition of Polish territorial changes that he had addressed to the late Polish premier, Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, Mr. Eden told Commons:

"This remains the position. His Majesty's government, of course, stands on the principles enunciated in the Atlantic Charter."

He also quoted Prime Minister Churchill's statement of Sept. 3, 1940, in which he declared that "we have not at any time adopted since this war broke out the line that nothing could be changed in territorial structure of various countries. On the other hand, we do not propose to recognize any territorial changes which take place during the war, unless they take place with the free consent and good will of the parties concerned."

Mr. Eden then told the house that "this statement represents the view of His Majesty's government."

Labor Bill Given Second Reading In Quebec House

QUEBEC, Jan. 26. — (CP) — The legislative assembly yesterday gave a unanimous second reading to a labor bill presented by the government which would create a labor relations board to handle all labor disputes in the province and would make it obligatory for employers to recognize any labor organization that had 80 per cent of the employees of a firm as members.

The bill does not prohibit strikes, but provides that 14 days' notice of strike—or lockout—must be given should either side not be satisfied with the board's ruling on a labor dispute. A second bill, to be studied later, is understood to prohibit strikes among public service employees.

Engineers Hear Microscope Talk

An illustrated lecture on the electron microscope by K. G. Chisholm, B.E.E., of the R.C.A. Victor Electric Co. featured the regular monthly meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada held in the Medical building of the University of Alberta, Tuesday evening.

There were about 150 in attendance.

C. W. Carry was chairman. The marvelous new microscope reveals much smaller things than the old type of light microscope. Several slides were shown, including one of the windpipe of mosquito larvae.

Soviets Charge Nazis Murder 11,000 Poles

By HARRISON SALISBURY

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 26.—A special Soviet atrocity commission today formally charged the Germans with the murder of an estimated 11,000 Polish prisoners in the Katyn Forest near Smolensk and offered evidence refuting Nazi charges that the prisoners had been slain by the Russians.

The commission's 42-page report, published by the Soviet government, cited eye witnesses and fact that documents on the bodies bore dates later than March 1940—the date given by the Germans for the slayings—for authority that the Germans captured Smolensk in July 1941.

Medical testimony also showed that the bodies could not have been in the graves for more than about two years, the report said. It estimated that the Poles were slain in August and September 1941 and said 925 bodies so far had been exhumed from the graves, which were recovered when the Red army liberated the Smolensk area last year.

PROVOKED RED WRATH

The Germans issued sensational reports about the "discovery" of the mass graves early last year while the area still was in Nazi hands.

The propaganda reports so impressed the Polish exile government in London that it asked the International Red Cross to investigate the charges. This provoked the Russian wrath and led the Soviets to break off relations with the exile government April 26.

Extending Kitchen University Campus

Extension of kitchen facilities at the University of Alberta hospital, costing approximately $17,000, are now being proceeded with, and a permit for the alterations was issued Wednesday by the city architect's office.

Permits for two homes were issued during the last two days. Miss Antonia Baupre, 10735 114 street, took out a permit to build a bungalow costing $1,500; and Alex Mitchell, 11836 124 street, a permit to build a cottage costing $1,000.

A permit was issued to Wartime Housing Ltd., Toronto, for structural alterations to an office building located at 9502 118 avenue.

Three permits were issued to L. H. S. and R. W. P. Armstrong for structural alterations to dwellings located at 10042 110 street, 10044 110 street and 10046 110 street.

Residence room rental income increased approximately $7,000 or 61 per cent over 1942. Contributions totalled $9,325, of which $9,000 was donated to the Community Chest of Edmonton and $300 a grant from the City of Edmonton.

Although 1943 income "was sufficient to take care of expenses incurred," he reported, "it failed to take care of depreciation charges to the extent of more than $2,000."

LAUD CAMP LEADERS
Tribute was paid in reports to the leaders of Camp Keewadin, Bill Rea, John McDiarmid, Ron Chapman, Gordon Woodman, Geo. Lathbridge, Ian Robertson, Jack Madill, Neil Barnes, Gordon McLachlan, Charlie Chinneck, Jack Fowler and Don Ramsay who "deserve high commendation in that they were somewhat younger than leaders of previous years, but in spite of this they did an excellent job in directing one of the largest camps ever held at Elk Island."

In addition to the camp conducted on Elk Island in the summer of '42, the Y.M.C.A. conducted an "In the City Camp" for a month, under the direction of Ralph Young, program secretary. The "Y" also co-operated with representatives of other youth movements to extend city camps this summer.

Some of the other activities reviewed were the Sunday musicals "made possible through the co-operation of the choir of the Church of the Nazarene and the choir director Rev. A. B. Patterson;" the first annual Christmas Eve Carol Service, which was attended by about 300 persons and the New Year's frolic, which was jointly sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. men's section committee, the United Church Young People's Union and the Anglican Young People's Association.

Reports were given on the various clubs affiliated with the Y, including the Edmonton Y's Men's Club, whose slogan is "to acknowledge the duty that accompanies every right"; the Phalanx Fellowship, whose motto is "Service—Understanding—Fellowship"; and the Hi-Y clubs for young men in the high schools and technical schools.

BOYS' ACTIVITIES
During 1943, the Y.M.C.A. reported the program of boys' activities, including physical training instruction, leadership development, educational and social activities was conducted "very successfully."

Another service last year was that of accommodating more than 24,620 transients, an increase of more than 7,000 over 1942 and 9,855 occupants for periods of two weeks or more, through its own facilities and by directing hundreds of persons each week to other lodgings.

A new service inaugurated in 1943 through the efforts of the program council was the "So-Ed", which was conducted twice during the year.

"Nearly 100 different people gave time as speakers, discussion leaders and counsellors in Edmonton's 'So-Ed' last year. Nearly 4,000 young people in more than 15 Canadian Y.M.C.A.'s joined the ever-growing throng of this very popular type of young people's work."

The success of the "So-Ed" has been so great that it has already been announced that a new series will begin Feb. 18, 1944.

A special report was devoted to the United Services Y.M.C.A. club which "has continued to serve the thousands upon thousands of men visiting the building."

FACILITIES LIMITED
"With limited facilities they have performed a magnificent service to the Y.M.C.A. to Edmonton and to Canada. Efforts to secure additional facilities, to alleviate the overcrowding and to improve the services offered to our armed forces have been unsuccessful."

In spite of the "limited facilities" among the services sponsored the club and the Y.M.C.A. gave 106 dances in 1943, attended by over 12,000 persons; 150 R.C.N.V.R. swim instruction parades, participated in by over 5,000 servicemen; served about 34,000 readers in the reading room and accommodated 40,253 in the shower baths and swims as well as arranging home entertainment and dormitory accommodations for more than 15,000 individuals.

REVIEW NEW SERVICE
A review was given of another service inaugurated by the Y.M.C.A. in 1943—the Mountglen Community Y.M.C.A., which already has about 400 family memberships and is fast on the way of becoming a permanent and important community organization in the west end section of the city.

Earlier in the program, Clark Ready, general secretary of the "Y" led a tribute to the memory of "Y" members who had given their lives in action in the last year.

They are: John Adams (R.C.A.F.); Pte. Sgt. Wm. Boon; F.O. J. M. (Kenzie) Colvin; Pte. Elmer Devore; P.O. Harry Kirkland; P.O. Don Porter; Pte. Lt. John Sterne; Lieut. H. M. Turner and Dick Wilkin (R.C.A.F.).

Four Other Resolutions Passed

Four other resolutions passed at Tuesday afternoon sittings of the convention called for revision by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board of commodity prices on the basis of quality; for revision of tire-rating regulations in certain cases; for employment of travelling nurses to visit rural schools, and for installation of cleaning facilities at shipping points.

Texts of the resolutions are below:

1—Whereas the price of footwear and clothing has risen since the outbreak of war, and whereas the quality of many manufactured items has deteriorated while top ceiling prices are being charged, and whereas these tend to force the cost of living to the farmer much higher since replacements must be made more often, and whereas the farmers get no cost of living bonus to help carry the added burden; be it resolved:

That the prices and trade board take over the task of grading all produce and manufactured goods, and allow only top quality to demand top prices.

2—Whereas many farmers living a long distance from town and having no truck depend on the farm car for bringing in supplies and repairs, but the tire rationing board holds them up for months before issuing a tire permit although farmers with trucks can get permits immediately on application; be it resolved:

That this should be remedied and farmers applying for tire permits for their cars be given them at once. (From an A.F.U. convention at Onaway.)

3—Whereas the health among rural school children is not as good as it should be, we ask that a travelling nurse be employed to visit our rural schools at regular intervals and check for defects among the children. (From Saskatoon Lake local.)

CLEANING FACILITIES

4—Whereas we farmers are penalized with heavy dockage which has feed value and which is being sold by elevator companies at our expense; be it resolved:

That we have cleaning facilities at our shipping points so that we may obtain this dockage back and thereby improve the grade of our grain. (From Amelia local.)

At Tuesday night sessions of the convention, James Ross delivered an address on freight rates.

"It will be for farm organizations to bring rail, road and water transportation rates on the prairies into greater conformity," he said, declaring that the railway transport commission should have its powers widely extended to deal with the freight rate situation today.

RATES PROTESTED

Because of the freight rate structure today, certain commodities can be shipped from Montreal to Vancouver (through Edmonton), and back to Edmonton, cheaper than they can be shipped from Montreal to Edmonton direct, Mr. Ross said. He stated that on an average, the freight rate from Montreal to Edmonton is two and one-half times the rate from Montreal to Vancouver.

"That sounds like Ripley—believe it or not!" a delegate remarked at this point.

Mr. Ross referred to rates on farm commodities from the east to Edmonton, compared to rates on the same commodities to Vancouver. Barbed wire, fencing, twine, window glass and galvanized sheet iron were mentioned as costing from 58 to 160 per cent more to ship to Edmonton than to the coast. "There is no sense to such a rate structure," he declared.

He charged that in pre-war days, scrap iron was shipped to Vancouver at a rate of $5 a ton in 40-ton lots, and it went to Japan for munitions.

Now, the rate on scrap to the coast is $10 a ton, in 50-ton lots, and it is being used in our own war effort.

"That is something done by the basic rates commission in eastern Canada," Mr. Ross said.

His citation read, "As an air gunner in operations against some of the enemy's most heavily defended targets and has been responsible for the destruction of at least two enemy night fighters." He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in June, 1941, as ground crew and re-mustered as air gunner in May of the following year, training at Clearholm and Lethbridge. He received his wings and commission at the latter school and proceeded overseas in November, 1942. A brother Pte. Fred Wagner is serving overseas with the Canadian Army as a driver mechanic, and a sister Pte. Martha Wagner, C.W.A.C., is stationed at Currie Barracks.

Pay, Allowances For Vets Studied

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Arrangements for servicemen re-entering civilian life in relation to the cessation of service pay and allowances and the start of pension or other benefits are constantly under review, a Pensions Department spokesman said yesterday.

The question of continuance of full pay and allowances for wounded men under treatment is believed to have been considered but it is not known whether a favorable recommendation has been made by the department.

One factor is the discrepancy in pay between different ranks. The allowances the department makes to men under treatment in hospital, in addition to their maintenance, and the benefits to men not in hospital but receiving treatment and not working, are said to be comparable to the pay and allowances of a man in the lower ranks but not equal to the receipts of commissioned and non-commissioned officers.

After his address, Mr. Ross answered questions submitted from the floor of the convention.

He called for affiliation of the farmers' union with a recognized trade union movement in Canada, and also pleaded for unity among Alberta farm organizations.

His address evoked prolonged discussion from the convention floor, and a resolution arising out of his address is expected to come before the convention some time Wednesday.

Data on Ship Costs Urged By Committee

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—A war expenditures sub-committee reporting on an investigation into cargo and naval ship-building recommended today to parliament action to make available data which would enable a comparison of production and costs of shipyards engaged in war work.

The report, tabled in the Commons by Hughes Cleaver (L., Halton), the main committee chairman, was made on behalf of No. 1 sub-committee, of which V. J. Pottier (L., Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clare) was chairman.

The committee discussed the advisability of designing a new 10,350-ton ship with increased speed and was informed there were a number of factors to be considered before such a step was taken.

"We suggest, however, that efforts should be made to ascertain if construction of such a ship for post-war use is practicable in Canada with a view to keeping as many yards as possible occupied to meet expected commercial requirements," the report said.

Deliveries of 10,350-ton ships to the end of 1943 totalled 219 and estimated production for 1944 was 102. In addition, 13,470-ton cargo ships have been delivered and the 1944 program calls for 18.

Dealing with labor relations in the yards, the committee reported it had found evidence of absenteeism "of substantial proportions." Income tax and compulsory savings deductions were given as one of the primary causes and the committee

Ruinous Interest Rates

In marked contrast to rates paid by similar civic and private corporations, the City of Edmonton is paying from 4½ to 6 percent interest on a net debt of more than $22,000,000.

For years past The Edmonton Bulletin has pointed out that these inordinate interest rates were robbing the taxpayers of their property just as surely and disgracefully as any hold-up man who purloins a victim's cash at the point of a gun.

More than a million dollars are being paid out each year in these interest charges which are excessive in point of fact as well as in point of comparison. The result is that pioneer citizens have had their life savings confiscated by the city through unpayable and unjust taxes.

The situation is intolerable because the primary purpose of civic government is to protect its citizens, and not to expose them to exploitation. When civic government permits this interest exploitation to continue, it not only fails in its protective function, but actually perverts that function, because the welfare of the citizens of Edmonton is inferentially subordinated to the welfare of those who are not citizens of Edmonton.

The Mayor, City Commissioners and City Council should demand interest rates at less than half those now being paid. If the bond dealers are not prepared to grant reasonable terms, it becomes clear that the duty of these officials is to place the case for better interest terms before the Prime Minister of Canada.

In no other way can the demands of good government be satisfied.

Quick action is a certainty if the case is properly prepared and presented. No government, in the public interest, can afford to permit such outrageous interest rates to continue.

This Winter of Ours

The predictors are hinting that the weather may change for the worse in this part of the world one of these days. They perhaps are basing their prognostications on the fact that if it changes at all it will have to be for the worse. There couldn't be much finer weather than has come to Edmonton and Alberta generally without a break since Christmas. And only relatively was that of the preceding months less enjoyable. Thus far we have had the nearest approach to a coldless winter that can be looked for in this latitude. There have been others of course, but they were few and far between, not more than one in a decade.

Building and other outdoor work has gone on without interruption so far as the weather was concerned. Farmers report that the consumption of feed by stock is remarkably low, and the outlook is that a good many stacks will be intact when spring opens. The city's street railway has had no repetition of last year's experience in plowing through drifts, and the householder has probably forgotten where he left the snow shovel at the end of last winter's strenuous operations. Fuel consumption has been light, and no hardship involved in complying with the official admonition to conserve coal.

Come what may in the remaining weeks, Albertans thus far have had—and have immensely enjoyed—a California winter without the expense of going away from home.

Unified Empire Policy

Spokesmen for political groups which are hostile to imperial relations have attacked Lord Halifax for his speech in Toronto which advocated a unified policy in affairs of the Empire—particularly those affairs having to do with the shaping of the post-war world.

Lord Halifax, pointing out that only unity will permit Britain and the Dominions to maintain a position of equality with the United States, Russia and China, said this:

"If we are going to play our rightful part in the preservation of peace, we can only play it as a commonwealth—united, vital and coherent."

To this eminently intelligent observation, the leader of the Bloc Populaire replied that his party could only see Canada as an "independent" nation.

Since Canada is already an independent and sovereign nation, this highly impertinent answer hardly requires consideration.

The reply of the leader of the C.C.F. was slightly different. Mr. Coldwell raised the point that, in view of the effort being made to avoid power blocs, this question of imperial unity might be regarded with suspicion by our Allies.

This is a thoughtful reply, but it is difficult to accept the sense of it. To deny the British Empire the right to speak as a unit in world conversations would be tantamount to a refusal to permit the 48 sovereign states of America to speak as a unit. And if the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, with its 16 separate republics, its 49 different nationalities and its 126 different languages, can go into the post-war conferences as a unit, why should the same privilege be denied the British Empire?

There is, of course, a tendency in Canada to shy away from any movement which might result in the formation of an imperial council because there is good reason for believing that the operation of such a council might curtail some of Canada's sovereignty. But it is not a super-imperial body that Lord Halifax advises. It is no more than the formulation of a basic imperial policy to which all sections of the Empire would agree and upon which they could go into world conferences as a unit.

What surrender of sovereignty is implied there?

The fact is that greater co-operation within the Empire on matters of foreign policy would not decrease Canada's sovereignty in the field of international relations, but materially increase it. It would not multiply Britain's influence over Canada's foreign affairs, but would substantially enlarge Canada's influence in the Empire's foreign affairs.

In fact, there would be a hope—often expressed most pointedly by those who now oppose Lord Halifax's proposal—that Canada's interest in European affairs would not be post facto, as it has been almost entirely in the past, but would become more nearly of an ante facto nature.

In short, Canada would be in a position to participate in future Munichs, if she so desired, rather than merely concur in them. She would be a principal in future guarantees to such countries as Poland, for instance, instead of a mere backer of the note.

The supposedly omniscient intelligence department at Berlin is in line to do some more explaining. Having failed to count up how many men Russia would be able to put in the field, the agents of Himmler and Goebbels didn't even know that an Allied force was leap-frogging around Kesselring's line in Italy until the bullets started coming from the rear.

Housewives are being given information well in advance as to how much sugar they will be able to secure for canning purposes this year. The amount is 10 pounds per person, to be obtained by turning in F coupons in the ration books now in use. The coupons become valid July 1st. That cuts out rhubarb, if anyone is interested in canning rhubarb. It is also late for putting up strawberries. There is a proviso, however, that by turning in preserves coupons additional sugar can be bought, to a total amount of 23 pounds per person. This early setting of the canning quota plainly implies that there is little if any prospect that sugar will be available to Canadians in larger quantities before mid-summer at least.

De Gaulle Is Leader of France

American Reluctance to Recognize Him Causes Resentment

By SONIA TAMARA
In the New York Herald Tribune
It is not difficult to find out in Algiers that relations between the French Committee for National Liberation and the American government are not as good as could be wished for. I could even say more. Feeling of the French people here toward Americans in general is about the same as when the question of the First World War debts was discussed some ten years ago.

It is not quite true today that Americans are the most popular people in Europe. They may be that again in the future. But since I've been here I've never ceased to hear complaints about Americans and recriminations against them. It is better to bring them into the open than to hush them up. The situation can be improved. Indeed, I can sense that it is slowly improving. Yet much still remains to be done.

Many of the French recriminations against us are futile and of a passing character. There's no need to dwell on them. Complaints I've heard most persistently, however, are directed against the State Department and American reluctance to recognize de Gaulle as France's leader.

I've gone into this very thoroughly. I've listened to many Frenchmen and women—political and military figures and plain citizens, people recently come from France—and also some of the Americans who have been here since the landing of November, 1942. The conclusion is inevitable. We have made a mistake. To say it plainly we have backed the wrong horse and we are now in a false position. Things can yet be straightened out and Ambassador Edwin Wilson is doing so patiently and skillfully. But ill-feeling is deep.

Some Americans would have recognized early enough that de Gaulle's popularity was on the up-growth in France and that he was a coming man. He is now virtual head of nearly all French possessions overseas and there is no doubt that the French in France, whatever their political convictions, look up to him as their leader today and tomorrow. When France is liberated de Gaulle will be the first figure there. His popularity after that will depend on his actions. It's thus of little use to grudge him recognition or help. De Gaulle knows that he is the man France has chosen and he is proud of it. "Come with me to Marseilles, to Strasbourg, to Paris when these cities are liberated," he was telling me the other day. From all I've heard from people coming from France he is right. He'll be acclaimed wildly, enthusiastically when he walks into these cities as the man who upheld France's honor.

There's no doubt that he will be the first chief of the French state. If any foreign power opposes him the reaction in France will be very unfavorable. Every day I meet here men who say there will be revolution in France if foreign powers try to dictate to Frenchmen what they should do at home.

The American government has rightly or wrongly gained the reputation of being a reactionary government which wants to reinstate in Europe a sort of semi-Fascism to counter-balance Russian influence. All information coming from Europe indicates that the turn there is toward the left, though not for Communism, at least where France is concerned. Frenchmen are inclined to blame reactionary views of the state department for slowness in progress of the war; for insufficient help to guerrillas and for reluctance to back de Gaulle.

The other day a French officer who escaped from France said to me sadly: "Americans were immensely popular in France, but the British are liked better today."

Yet I can sense since my arrival here three weeks ago slight improvement in the diplomatic situation. Once the tension that existed in higher political circles ceases, resentment against the United States of the smaller men is bound to wane. When I recall the situation as it was last June when de Gaulle arrived I can see a great step forward.

For one thing, de Gaulle now feels himself fully master of the situation here and in France. He may still have some difficulties with the Allies and with his own politicians, but he is de facto chief of state. He has something to govern—a vast colonial empire, which must be run, which brings in income and requires expenditure. The other day Benes, exiled chief of state, paid a state visit to de Gaulle. Men who work with de Gaulle assure me that he has great abilities as administrator and say that he will therefore be the best man to rebuild France when it is liberated. Time will show this.

Underground men arrived from France recognize de Gaulle as uncanny intuition of feelings and aspirations prevailing in France today. They are convinced that he won't try to be a dictator. "The people of France are so tired of Fascism and of the Fuehrer idea that they won't tolerate a dictator for a moment," I've been told. "If de Gaulle tries to be a dictator we'll throw him out. He realizes it only too well and won't try." Other friends of de Gaulle assure me that he is a democrat at heart and does not believe in dictatorship in France. The fact is, anyway, that he has curtailed his own power here by calling a consultative assembly, which cannot prevent government from acting, but can criticize it.

The fact that there is the assembly has helped the French. They feel their country with its old institutions is beginning to come back to the world scene. It gives them self-assurance, just as de Gaulle finds strength and equanimity in the state he's now ruling. His stature as a statesman is growing and his relations with foreign powers are getting smoother. I think this is the main reason for the slightly better atmosphere reigning here today. The rest will depend on the Allied governments and the actions they'll take with regard to France.

There's the question of French troops in Italy. Some are already fighting in Italy in a very difficult, hilly sector. Others are ready and waiting; others are still to be equipped. It is natural that any Frenchman wants French troops to fight in France. If they are sent to the front we'll open in France they'll be pleased. Another question is help to the guerrilla armies. This is important to military leaders to know whether it can be given or not. The truth is that the number of guerrillas or potential guerrillas is high and could be higher still; that they suffer from cold and hunger and German and Vichy persecutions.

A great deal of the bettering of the atmosphere is due to the Allied representatives now dealing with the French. Both Harold McMillan and Duff Cooper who is replacing McMillan, and Ambassador Wilson are personae gratae with the French, being free from the burden of past relations that weighed on some of our former political representatives.

They can get and give a fairer deal. Some people may say that it matters little whether European people like us or not, but such reasoning seems childish in view of the gigantic problems facing us.

Restore Conditions to Meet All Emergencies At Sea

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Every man who goes to sea must be in such hard physical condition that even if it's his "watch below" he can join "all hands" in manning the ship during storms or emergencies.

When a sailor meets with an accident he must satisfy the examining medical officer, before being allowed to return to sea, that there is no possibility of a relapse.

The Seamen's Hospital Society, with headquarters at London's Albert Dock Hospital, is such an institution where patients are treated. To get them fit the men are kept constantly at exercise. Muscle tone is kept up, and when the treatment is finished they are in full training and ready for work.

Many men are treated as outpatients. They have to attend every week-day, and are given extra nourishment if the surgeon thinks necessary.

The hospital is situated in the heart of the London Docks, and must deal with all men who work on the wharves and in the docks, in addition to the sailors who man the ships at sea.

Immediate treatment is given urgent cases with shock involved. Without removal from the stretcher but placed on a special couch the patient is given a radiant heat bath under thermostat control.

Provision is made for control of hemorrhage, blood transfusion, and in other ways for immediate surgical attention. From the time the ambulance arrives at the hospital until the time when all the methods of administering treatment for shock are in operation, less than three minutes have elapsed. During that time the patient is not once moved from the stretcher and is never exposed to cold air.

Muscular Treatments

The electro-therapeutic department is small, the aim being to achieve muscular development and suppleness of joints by active voluntary movements on the part of the patient. Five cubicles are used for massage, diathermy and short-wave treatment.

Patients attending the gymnasium are examined by the surgeon at least twice a week. Those in the gymnasium are in the charge of an old patient. He has an intimate knowledge of working conditions both at sea and in the docks. He understands the mentality of his patients and the exercises which he devises are simple to understand and are made interesting and enjoyable.

When weather permits, exercise is taken in the open air. Volunteers amongst the men work for short periods in the vegetable and flower gardens. Others scrub and polish the floors and furniture in the dining-room, and wash the dishes. At meal times they wait on themselves. The men are given as much as they can eat.

Large Rest Room

Attached to the fracture ward is a separate ward of two beds, which are reserved for patients with head injuries or such severe injuries that quiet is necessary.

There is a large rest room for ambulatory in-patients, where they have their meals when they come up from the gymnasium and where they may rest during the evening.

The operating rooms are simple. They are two in number, one theatre is reserved for clean bone cases, the other for plaster work and such operations as are not thought suitable for the first. There are two sterilizing rooms, two anaesthetic rooms and a surgeon's room fitted with plunge bath. One feature of the first theatre is a developing room for X-rays.

The goal of treatment of the Albert Dock hospital is to restore the injured seamen to full working capacity and in this the work is as much preventative as curative. Fears are eliminated by the assurance from the surgeons of full recovery and from the employer of full work.

Mrs. Brown had a treasure of a maid, and she was praising her wonderful qualities, especially her trustworthiness, to envious friends, when the girl herself entered the room with tea.

"Oh, Jane," said Mrs. Brown, "you will run upstairs and fetch that letter I left on my dressing table!"

"Er—er—which one, ma'am?" inquired Jane. "The one about your brother's divorce or the one about the hire-purchase payments being late?"

It is unthinkable that there should be wholesale executions of minor officials, who probably had no alternative but death if they refused to carry out orders issued in pursuance of policies initiated by national chief executives.

Says Appalling Problems Are Facing World

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (CP)—Peoples who seek to make a democratic way of life effective in the post-war world must be armed with physical power and be prepared to co-operate with both large and small powers, Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada, said yesterday in an address to the Royal Empire society.

"I think sharp words of warning should be uttered to the effect that the post-war problems will be appalling and that unless national governments and peoples show a remarkable degree of intelligence and enlightenment in tackling them, human affairs a few years hence may be about as confused as they have been at any time in our lives," Mr. MacDonald said.

"Wishful thinking about the peace may be as disastrous as wishful thinking about the war," he added.

POST-WAR AMBITIONS

Mr. MacDonald summed up the post-war ambitions of the British people under three headings:

1—Security to develop in their homeland with freedom from attack.

2—Assurance of the same freedom for their friends and all decent minded peoples.

3—Co-operation of all nations in the steady growth of "a peaceful, progressive and splendid human civilization."

The people who believed in that way of international life would have to be armed with the physical power to prevent disturbance of it. The great bulk of power would reside with Russia, America and Britain, partnered by other British nations.

"If their economic and military forces are ready to co-operate in support of whatever new international system we set up, it will have a good prospect of success," Mr. MacDonald said. "But if those nations are divided in their policies and in the use of their power, then our efforts will assuredly once more fail."

CO-OPERATION ESSENTIAL

The first essential of lasting peace was co-operation of Russia, America and Britain, with consideration for the growing importance of China; but dictatorship by the great powers would be rightly resisted by the smaller nations which individually would count for little and collectively would constitute a great influence in world affairs.

"No nations should be excluded from the family circle," he said. "In due course the present enemy peoples should qualify for membership."

MY DAY

WASHINGTON. — I returned to Washington yesterday noon to find the usual tremendous accumulation of mail.

At 4:30 the President of Venezuela arrived, and we had a very pleasant time with him at ten. I was interested to learn that in Venezuela they have obtained assistance from experienced people in the social security field, and are already concerning themselves with laws to cover many of the problems which face us and, I suppose, face the people of the world in varying degrees.

Venezuela is an agricultural country, and has suffered during the war because of her inability to import the things she needs, and to export her own products. Now it is becoming easier to do this. I was interested to learn that besides coffee and cocoa, which have always been the main exports, they are beginning to produce other things for our market.

Later in the afternoon, a young merchant marine officer, who used to be a lawyer in New York City, brought some of the members of the naval crew of his ship to see me. The four young men, James Nicholson, Joseph Bridges, Gerald Goode and Robert Layman, all come from New England. They were on the famous "forgotten convoy of North Russia," and spent eight months in Russia after they reached port.

I was interested in what they said because it showed how much our boys observe. They told me that although the people in Russia seem to have a pretty low standard of living, from our point of view, they are happy and believe in their own progress. They seem to have a natural appreciation for music and art. In fact, they said that the soldiers were always singing, and that one of the songs the sailors sang was beautiful. They brought it back with them.

When our boys come home from these distant places, they have a better appreciation of what our country has given us, but they also have a better understanding of the contribution of other peoples and of their aspirations.

I showed the navy boys around the White House, including the state dining-room where the table was set for the formal dinner to the President of Venezuela. I told them that the table decorations had been bought by James Madison and brought from France in the early days of our republic. This always gives me a thrill and interested them very much as it seems to bring the very years of our history so much closer to us.

Now I must be off to do a recording for the Iowa State College "Farm and Home Week" with Martha Duncan. This afternoon I shall visit more of our undesirable housing in the District of Columbia.

McCoy Health Service

An excessive amount of stomach and intestinal gas, or flatulence, is so common that about 90 per cent of all patients complain of it, and yet this symptom is largely ignored by medical books. A certain amount of gas in the alimentary tract is always present and the healthy person is untroubled by it but when the gas is formed to such an extensive amount that it causes pain, discomfort, or bloating, the condition is no longer normal and is termed flatulence.

When the gas collects in large pockets, we find that the patient complains of various distressing symptoms such as a sense of fullness, sharp colicky pains, rumbling noises, belching, shortness of breath, bloated feeling, uneasiness, etc. If the gas is in the stomach pressing up against the heart the patient is likely to suffer from palpitation or too rapid beating of the heart which scares him into thinking he has some serious heart disease. A gas pocket is nearly always present in attacks of asthma.

If you examine a patient who is suffering from a great deal of gas you will find the abdomen distended, the skin seems stretched, and just the pressure of the fingers may give rise to pain. Those who have distress while taking the enema will find that in most instances the trouble is due to excessive pressure from gas and that as soon as the gas is passed, the abdomen becomes comfortable again. The worst gas attacks usually occur during the night and nightmares, sleeplessness, and fluttering of the heart which make the night hours miserable are often due to large quantities of intestinal gas. The accumulation of gas will frequently intensify any nervous symptoms which the patient has, and he will anxiously note that cold hands, nervous chills, and an anxious, worried frame of mind often appears just as soon as he is aware that he is bloated again. Many patients suffer from gas after every meal, for years Gas is likely to accompany any disease of the stomach or intestines such as indigestion, gastritis, constipation, proptosis, etc. It is especially likely to be present with colitis, when the presence of these pockets of gas will press upon the inflamed intestine and cause great discomfort. It is also found with liver trouble, inflammation of the gall bladder, and appendicitis.

Some of the causes of excessive gas are: A bad habit of swallowing air; stomach inflammation; overeating; wrong food combinations; eating too rapidly; eating when tired; indigestible foods; and the use of foods which are gas-forming in themselves such as beans, cooked cabbage, melons, peanuts, onions, garlic, etc.

The most common foods which are likely to produce flatulence when wrongly combined are the starches. The combination of starch and sugar should be avoided by those with a tendency to excessive gas, as these two foods readily ferment, leading to flatulence. Where there are pockets in the intestines, such as are common with constipation, the food may remain much longer than it should and undergo putrefaction and fermentation, producing large quantities of gas.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

ALTHOUGH they dropped a photo finish, the Quartermasters gave the U.S. Engineers a grand battle, coming down the stretch over at Garneau gym on Tuesday night. It was the first time the basketball loop leaders had to gather in additional pointage in the closing minutes, but they did just that to come up with their 50-46 verdict and thus preserve intact an unbeaten league record now standing at eight straight.

The long-range shooting of the Lt. George Haas quintet with Artie Albert in the four-star role, has never been excelled in a scheduled fixture this season. Albert's total of 18 points included several baskets fired from around mid-floor vicinity.

It was—as might be expected—John Gullekson who finally settled the affair with only 50 seconds left. Mike Kroma broke the 42-42 tie by dropping in two field baskets. Bill Flint got one back on a long shot, but Bob Chamness replied for Engineers, only to have Harold Glaser drift in a long one to again cut the margin to two points. John's basket ended the matter.

ALBERT SECOND TO "JAWN"
Since the second round opened Albert has been the pace setter for the entire league. On Jan. 7 against Hospital he scored 13 and performed a repeat act in the Yanks' game a week later. He accordingly has rung up 44 points in three successive shows.

Thirteen appears to be Albert's favorite figure, for he has turned the trick four times in eight games. His poorest night was against Engineers on Dec. 7 when he made only two, but he won an even 100 which ranks him second to Gullekson who has collected 135 points in eight games.

Bruins Close to Shutout

Detroit Trims Boston 6-3 Making Eight Without Loss

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Detroit Red Wings gained a firmer grip on the National Hockey League's third rung by defeating the Boston Bruins 6-3 Tuesday night while chalking up their eighth successive game without a setback before a crowd of 12,000 at Boston Garden.

While being subjected to their fifth successive setback, the Bruins were outplayed by a wide margin until the final period, when they scored all of their tallies against their coasting rivals.

Adam Brown and Joe Carveth each scored twice for the Red Wings, who built up a 5-0 lead during the first two periods. The other Detroit goals were registered by Syd Howe and Carl Liscombe. Just when the Bruins appeared heading for their first shutout on Boston ice since Jan. 27, 1942, when they played a scoreless tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs, Norm Calladine scored. With less than two minutes to play, Herb Cain and Art Jackson contributed the other Boston tallies.

The action, which marked the first appearance of Flash Hollett, the Bruins' recent versatile performer, as a rival, was wide open most of the way and was played without a penalty being imposed.

Montgomery Scores Kayo Over Ike Williams in 12th

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bobcat Bob Montgomery blacked out promising Ike Williams of Trenton, N.J., Tuesday night in two minutes 49 seconds of the last round of a 12-round bout to blast his way over the first crucial hurdle on a comeback trail towards his lost lightweight title. The Philadelphia Negro weighed in at 137 while his dark skinned opponent was 131½.

Montgomery, fighting like a champion again, mauled Williams groggy through most of the contest. It was the end of a 33-victory streak for the Trenton Negro.

Williams came out strong in the first round with sharp blows to Montgomery's head and body, but he wilted toward the middle of the second round and the Associated Press scorecard gave the former champion this and every other round.

A cheering and booing crowd of 15,000 saw Montgomery trip-hammer Williams, and Williams came back gamely for more. The Trenton fighter managed to land only a few important blows, none of which seriously damaged the Bobcat.

Williams was groggy from body punches at the end of the third round and fought almost in a daze until Montgomery floored him for the first time soon after the opening of the last round.

Williams took a count of eight, then staggered to his feet, only to take another flaying.

Montgomery hit him hard and he went down for a count of nine. Williams stood against Montgomery's driving attacks for 30 seconds, then sagged over the ropes for the count of 10. He was out nearly four minutes after the bout had ended. Montgomery won his battle with brilliant fighting that bewildered the Trenton contender. Throughout the fight Williams tried to keep away and spar but Montgomery drove in.

The bout put Montgomery back in the range of contenders for the New York-Pennsylvania version of lightweight championship which he handed over to Beau Jack in Madison Square Garden last year.

Engineers Beat Quartermasters 50-46

Artie Albert Scores Total Of 18 Points

By DON KILLIPS

U.S. Engineers just managed to maintain their unbeaten record in the Edmonton Men's Basketball League at the Garneau gym Tuesday night as they overcame the powerful Quartermasters 50-46 in the last minutes of one of the most thrill-packed and closest games of the season. U.S. Army Yanks trounced Varsity 65-25 in the opener.

Artie Albert, star forward of the Quartermasters played great basketball and turned in the most outstanding performance by leading the scorers with 18 points in addition to checking Harley Miller closely and keeping the latter's total to four. He was also tops in shooting accuracy, making nine out of 20 field tries, one of which was dropped in from the centre of the floor.

John Gullekson, Bob Chamness and Earl Ayers paced the winners' attack, scoring 15, 11 and 10 respectively, but four baskets by Mike Kroma in the last quarter set the stage for the Engineer victory.

17 FOULS CALLED

The game was rough, a total of 17 fouls being called, although most of the counters were made on extra long shots. The losers were exceptionally good on long shots, making at least nine of their 21 field goals that way, four of which were fired from a distance equal to that of from centre floor to the basket.

Albert opened the counting on a shot from mid-floor, Miller came back with a field basket and a free shot and Bob Chamness added two points to make it 5-2 for the Engineers in the first five minutes. Albert put a pass from Bert Culver to cut the margin to one and then Miller dropped in another free shot to make it 6-4. But Jack Gutrie made good on a foul shot and Albert took a pass from under the basket to put the Quartermasters ahead until they were overcome in the last canto.

Lt. George Haas' club went on to take a 13-11 lead in the first quarter and increased it to 29-23 at half time. Quartermasters scored three baskets before Engineers could get to the hoop for a single counter in the second canto. "Ollie" Ferrari and Albert dropping in field goals before a minute had passed and Glaser adding a pair of markers to enable the losers to enjoy a 19-11 lead at that stage.

LAST FRAME EXCITING

There wasn't as much action in the third session and Engineers out-scored their rivals 12-7 to cut the margin to one, 36-35 at the three-quarter mark, but the fans were one edge in the exciting last frame as the Engineers came out with some extra power and chalked up 15 to Quartermasters' 10 to remain unbeaten.

Chamness opened the fourth stanza with a single point to tie it up, the losers went ahead 38-36 as Culver dropped in two foul shots, but Gullekson tied it up again, on a pass from Chamness. Albert tossed the ball through the hoop with one hand to put the Quartermasters ahead again, but Kroma made a field goal to tie it up and then followed with another two points as Engineers went ahead 42-40. Less than 10 seconds afterwards Albert made another basket, but Kroma tallied two more long shots in a row to put the winners on in front to stay.

Flint cut the lead to two, 46-44 when he dropped in a long shot from the side and Chamness made it 48-44 a few seconds later. Glaser brought the losers' total to 46 with only 50 seconds to go, but the Quartermasters, who gave the Engineers the hardest run this season were unable to tie it up again and Gullekson made it 50-46 as the final whistle went.

Basketball Affected

Service Sports Ban Includes All Games

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The armed services Tuesday placed a wider interpretation on their New Year sports ban which originally named only hockey but now embraces all sports, and thus dealt a body blow to Canadian amateur championship play, dominated for the last two years by service team and players.

From now on, Army and R.C.A.F. teams and players can participate only in garrison and defence leagues for sports like hockey, basketball, football and baseball which formerly led them to Canadian or regional play-offs. Similarly, the modified Navy restrictions, confining sailors to provincial or area loop play, applies to all sports.

Reason previously given for the ban was that time taken up with travelling long distances interferes with service training programs.

Spokesmen said Tuesday the "all-sports" ban should have been understood when the hockey restrictions were announced three weeks ago "because we naturally would not discriminate against only one game—hockey."

Disclosure of the general ban came after Air Force officials, hearing there were doubts as to whether Pat Bay R.C.A.F. Gremlins on Vancouver Island would be able to defend their Canadian Senior Men's Basketball championship this year, clarified the situation by definitely ruling the cage team out of the playoffs. A spokesman added that continued participation by the Gremlins, after the hockey tie, probably would be "winked at."

Blawie who marked up 17 points and John Vandenberg who came through with 16 in their easy 65-25 victory over the Varsity squad in last night's opener.

The win for the Yanks enabled them to take over sole possession of second place in section "A" of the league while Varsity's defeat was their seventh in eight starts.

Sammy Shekter turned in an outstanding game for the losers, hooping 12 of the 25 counters while the other points went to Roy Steed with four, Alfred Manifold with three and Frank Fergie, John McInnis and Jack Switzer with two each.

In addition to the 33 Blawie and Vandenberg chalked up, every other player on the Yank lineup counted at least two.

The winners out-scored the Varsity team 11-7 in the first quarter, Vandenberg, Milner, Blawie and Manuel Dorsky firing the Yank points and Shekter, Switzer and Steed dropping in the students' seven. And they went on to gain a 32-11 lead at half time with Vandenberg hooping five, Frank Wrigglesworth and Blawie four each and Dorsky, Wayne Adams, Vernon Stewart and Dillis Sandefer two apiece in the second quarter.

The U.S. club increased the lead in the second half by out-scoring their rivals 13-9 in the third session and 20-5 in the last. Blawie scored 11 of his 17 in the latter half of the game.

E.A.C. Midgets Now on Top; South Side Beats Flyers 3-1

EDMONTON ATHLETIC CLUB took a one-point lead over the Maple Leafs in the City Midget Hockey League by squeezing out a 3-2 win over the Canadians at 119 Street rink on Tuesday night. South Side now stands in third place.

The Leafs were held to a 2-2 tie by their club-mates, the Mapleos, and South Side won from Stadium Flyers by 3-1.

Dave Butler on a solo rush won a closely fought game for the E.A.Cees over the Canadians when he fired the winning counter with only 30 seconds of play remaining in the final period.

The two teams were deadlocked 2-2 at the time, Jack Singleton and Harry Jeske from Slattery being the other goal-getters for the league leaders, Emberg and Bob Fleming were the marksmen for the Canadians, Fleming's marker coming on a penalty shot.

Maple Leafs scored a goal on a power play midway through the final period to secure a 2-3 draw with the Mapleos.

The deadlock cost the Leafs the league lead, for they had been on even terms with the E.A.Cees, both teams having eight points.

Smith, who also netted the Leafs' tying marker, gave his club the lead on a pass from Barry early in the game, but Scotty Thompson with the help of Roy Haliburton counted for Mapleos near the end of the stanza.

Ronald Phillips' relay to Robertson resulted in Mapleos moving ahead in the middle frame, but Smith combined with Barry to tie up the score.

George Ego won the game for South Side at 15 minutes in the final period on a play with Silzer and he added another three minutes later with the assistance of Neil McDonald.

One Point Margin Over Carr

Herbie Cain Now Ahead In N.H.L. Scoring Race

MONTREAL, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Picking up two points as the result of the goal and assist obtained in the game against Detroit last night, Herbie Cain of Boston moved up ahead of Lorne Carr in the National Hockey League scoring list.

Cain has a total of 55 points, one more than Toronto's Carr, who in turn is two up on Bill Cowley, still on the sidelines due to an injury reached over two weeks ago.

By way of comparison, a year ago Tuesday Carr was leading last season's race with 16 points, and Cowley was second with 45 while Cain was well down the list with 25.

Elmer Lach of Canadiens is in fourth spot of this season's battle with 45 points, one more than Bill Mosienko of Chicago and two more than Doug Bentley of the Hawks and Gus Bodnar of Toronto.

Despite his long lay-off, Cowley is still tops in the assist department with 33, one ahead of Lach and two ahead of Buddy O'Connor of Canadiens. Cain leads the goal-getters with 29, four ahead of Carr.

Mike McMahon of Canadiens just managed to remain in the league's bad man, his total of 56 minutes in majors and minors leaving a single minute up on Harold Jackson of Detroit. Each picked up six minutes during the week.

He is a member of the Canadian Olympic team and has represented Canada in international hockey.

Experimental Community Farms Sought for Province

Farmers' Union Delegates Endorse Recommendations Of Reconstruction Group

The Alberta government is to be urged to establish experimental community farms in the province, it was decided at Tuesday afternoon convention sessions of the Alberta Farmers' Union, when a reconstruction committee report suggesting establishment of such farm units received endorsement of delegates.

I Saw Today

LIN BELL, chairman of the Calder Community League Improvement committee, interviewing authorities at the Civic block.

AND Harvey Dodd hurrying to keep an appointment; Wilbur Redman making a hardware purchase on 101 street; Val Berg stepping briskly north on 103 street; Donald "Buz" Stewart threading his way carefully across Jasper at 106 street; Billy Carleton on 82 avenue; T. B. Windross aboard an eastbound street car.

The report also recommended improvement and extension of educational facilities, adoption of state medicine and free hospitalization, modernization of farm sanitation and heating facilities (to be financed by government funds), rural electrification, reforestation, soil conservation measures, compulsory contributory crop insurance, and attainment of parity prices for farm products.

The community farm proposal evolved considerable discussion from the convention floor, and its discussion featured a wide diversity of opinion as to the measure's merit.

NUMBER INCREASED

The reconstruction committee had proposed that only one such farm be established as an experimental measure, but the convention amended the report to increase this number. It was suggested by one delegate that one farm be established in the south, a second in the north, and a third in the central section of the province.

Expressing opposition to the experimental community farm plan, one delegate said this type of farming would do away with the incentive to individual effort.

Another said it was seemingly impossible to obtain facts about results in Russia, as one writer said one thing, and another offered complete contradiction. The best thing to do, this speaker said, was to conduct an experiment in Alberta.

STRONG SUPPORT

Strong support of the community farm plan was offered by other delegates. Such a scheme in the St. Paul area has been found successful. It was noted by one speaker. Another delegate said, "You can have a school next door to a community farm, and a doctor and other services."

One supporter said the plan would assist in keeping boys and girls on the farm, and would mean they did not have to work 16 hours a day. "It would keep them from running to the city to become demoralized," he added.

The complete reconstruction report, as submitted by W. G. Logan, Holden; William Hawrelak, Jr., Wase; Mrs. J. Geddes, Winterburn; George Bevington, Winterburn; James Jackson, union president; Irma; Henry Young, Millet; and Chester O. McGowan, Hairy Hill, is below:

CONSIDER PROBLEMS

The reconstruction committee has given consideration to various problems affecting farm people which should be dealt with in the reconstruction period following the war because of the limited time which we had for study and preparation of this report. We are presenting only a synopsis of the various reports prepared by subcommittees embodying the definite recommendations contained therein.

EDUCATION

Extension and improvement of educational facilities, providing for equality of opportunity for all children to reach the highest degree.

Youth Had Planned To Sleep in Auto

A 16-year-old youth, who told a city patrolman he came from Dawson Creek, B.C., was handed over to authorities at the children's welfare, late Tuesday night.

Noticing the boy near an auto, the officer questioned him, and was told that the former was waiting for his niece. Upon examination of the car, the door was found to be unlocked. The youth then admitted that he had intended to sleep in the vehicle and he had no money and no place to stay.

Salvation Army Campaign Fund Over Objective

The Salvation Army's National campaign for funds for the home front totaled $886,000, considerably more than the objective, Lt.-Col. H. C. Tuttle, Toronto, public relations officer, and national campaign director, stated on his arrival here Wednesday to confer with local officials.

He said that the response to the appeal would permit of much needed repairs to properties, and also the extension of the department on prison work and the appointment of officials to assist in combating the increase in juvenile delinquency.

Commenting on this growth he said officials believed they had a solution for this problem. This solution, he said, included the establishment of recreational centres properly supervised by trained personnel where the gang spirit in boys could be diverted into useful channels.

He said that the Salvation Army was laying plans for participation in post-war rehabilitation and reconstruction, and expressed the opinion that in the judgment of the officials the post-war rehabilitation program should be wide enough to embrace every citizen of the Dominion.

In the post-war period there must be adult training and education for every person wishing to avail himself of it. He said there would be a vast immigration demand on Canada in the post-war period, but this should not be met until the readjustment of our own people had been achieved.

Wallet Missing

After a couple he had met, and taken to his room left the premises, between 12 p.m. and 2:30 a.m., Wednesday, he discovered that his pocket-book had disappeared. Elmer Jacobson, 10312 100 street, told city police. The wallet contained $80 in cash, registration and selective service cards. It was taken from his pants pocket, he stated.

Diphtheria Spread Prevented Here

The fact that 20 diphtheria carriers, discovered when two diphtheria cases were investigated in December and January, had received immunization may have prevented a serious epidemic of this dread disease, Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, stated Wednesday.

He said that in the two cases reported, one in December, the other in January, neither of the patients had been inoculated, and fortunately the disease took a very mild course.

Dr. Little asked all parents who have not had their children inoculated to take advantage of the free immunization service provided by the city.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Now that the "conductorette system" on the street car system has had a fair trial, what do you think of it?

THE ANSWERS

STANLEY CHISHOLM, clerk: I feel the conductorettes are doing a good job. They are sometimes handicapped by a lack of co-operation on the part of passengers, though. Many persons still seem to want to get in the front door of the street cars, even though there is lots more room, and even a seat or two, at the back.

HARRY DUNN, traveller: I'd like to see the street railway company go all the way, and make the cars back entrance only, with exits front and back. It stands to reason that a motorman who must sell tickets, give out transfers, watch traffic and run his car, is too busy to run his car as speedily as he might.

MARGUERITE BARKER, sales clerk: If only all the people would move to the middle of the car! It used to be that all the passengers would jam up at the front end, with lots of space left at the back. Now, they jam both ends, and leave a big gap in the middle.

Appeal Court Stays Decision In Murder Case

Judgment was reserved Wednesday morning by the Alberta court of appeal in the appeal brought by Sam Baptiste Desjarlais, Conklin district Indian, against conviction by jury and death sentence imposed by Mr. Justice C. C. McLaughlin on a charge of murdering Karl N. Hemmingsen, Monday River trapper.

The court denied the application made by W. G. K. Bloor, defence counsel, Wednesday, for permission to introduce new evidence. Mr. Justice Frank Ford dissented from this decision.

This application was made on the ground that George Desjarlais, cousin of the appellant, and also convicted on a charge of murdering Hemmingsen, had admitted during his own trial to committing perjury when giving evidence during the trial of Sam Desjarlais.

The Wednesday morning court session was marked by the personal appearance in court of Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney general. Associated with him for the crown were J. J. Frawley, K.C., and J. W. McClung.

The murder charge against Desjarlais was laid following the finding of Hemmingsen's bullet-riddled body in the Monday River near his trap line.

TO HEAR CASE

Hearing of the appeal brought by George Desjarlais against jury conviction and death sentence imposed by Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie opened immediately following the reserving of judgment in the Sam Desjarlais appeal.

Mr. Maynard, Mr. Frawley and Mr. McClung are acting for the crown in this appeal, with Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C., for the appellant.

Inquiry Opens Into Burning Car Fatality

Inquiry into the death of Raymond C. Jevne, Entwistle resident, which occurred early January 14, was adjourned Tuesday, until Thursday afternoon, after the evidence of nine witnesses, and Charles Stack, one of two persons arrested and charged with homicide, was heard. Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, presided, while C. G. Purvis, K.C., conducted the inquiry.

Dr. Morton E. Hall, the first witness called, told the jury that he had conducted a post-mortem on Jevne, Jan. 14. Physically normal, and about 30 years of age, Jevne had died as the result of acute carbon monoxide poisoning—about 95 per cent concentrated. The brain showed 329 per cent alcohol, indicative of a very severe state of intoxication. There was a burn, several inches in diameter, on the left buttock.

CAUSED BY BURNING

There were not many sources of carbon monoxide in this city, continued the witness, who said a large quantity of carbon monoxide would be caused by burning cushions in a closed car.

Dr. C. Ross stated he had seen Jevne about 5:30 a.m., when the latter was taken to the hospital operating room where artificial respiration was applied till approximately 7:20 a.m., at which time he was pronounced dead. The face was bluish, the clothing partially burned, and the man was not breathing, perceptibly; the witness added he could get no pulse or heart beat.

The superficial burn on the left buttock appeared to be the only injury, said Dr. Ross, who added his belief that Jevne was dead upon arrival at the Royal Alexandra hospital. There had been no definite signs otherwise, he concluded.

George Herneck, Entwistle, a friend of the dead man, told the jury of leaving Entwistle the day before his friend's death, for Edmonton.

The witness said he had gone to Continued on Page Thirteen

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Old Folks Are World's Unsolved Problems

Need Loved Ones About Them But Often Cause Trouble With In-Laws and Children; Unknowingly Cause Rifts Between Couples

The greatest and most insoluble problem in the world is what to do with old people, especially old mothers, yet it is one with which millions of people have to wrestle every day of their lives. And no one has found out any way to settle the dilemma without someone being offered up as a sacrifice on the family altar.

If human nature was what it should be, grand and noble and altruistic and patient and understanding and sympathetic, then Grandma would be a welcome figure at every festive, but alas, human nature isn't constructed along those lines to any considerable extent.

Of course, there are many exceptions to this rule. There are angelic old people who are so wise and sweet and delightful to live with that their mere presence is a benediction on any home, and whose children and children's children and even their in-laws cherish them and fight for the privilege of having them live with them. But the majority of old people are cranky and set in their ways, and feel that they have just as much right to control their middle-aged children as they did when they were tiny tots in rompers.

This brings about a heartbreaking situation for what apparently there is no remedy, people being what they are. For here is, on the one hand, the woman who has been a good mother. She has given her life to her children's service. She bore them in agony. She spent sleepless nights watching over their sick beds. She toiled to feed and clothe them. She went shabby that they might be as well dressed as the other youngsters. She literally starved to send them to college. She laid up nothing for the future because she was so sure that her children would always want her with them, and that in her old age she would find a soft refuge in their homes.

And her children are not always ungrateful. Many pay their debt to her with the pound of flesh nearest their hearts by remaining old maids and old bachelors in order to take care of her. Many others are forced to wince on their obligation by circumstances that are beyond their control. They have married and their meager incomes barely support their own families. They cannot take on another mouth to feed, or find room for another in their over-crowded houses.

IN-LAW PROBLEM
Then there comes in the in-law difficulty. No married person is a free agent in domestic matters. John's wife can't get along with Mother. Percy's wife has social aspirations and simply won't have a homely old woman on the premises. Mother drives Sally's husband to drink by lecturing him on the evils of tobacco every time he lights a cigarette. Becky's husband refuses to have Mother around because he wants his house and his wife to himself, without any third party on the listening post.

So what's to be done with Mother? Mother can't change. She can't make herself over into a brilliant and scintillating conversationalist after she has been a simple babbling all of her life. She can't keep from being a repeater and telling the same old stories over and over again. She can't keep her fingers out of her children's pies, nor refrain from trying to run everybody around her. She can't keep silent about the way her grandchildren do. She is as she is and as age has made her.

And what are the son and daughter to do who see their homes being broken up by a dear, good old woman, whom they love and whom they would rather die than hurt, yet who cannot ignore their responsibility to their own families? Shall they let Grandma drive their husbands and wives away from them and their children to the streets? Or shall they shut their own doors on the poor old lady?

The comfortable family hotel, the nice boarding house, or a little apartment of her own seems the only logical solution of the situation when money does not have to be considered, but even that is not the answer, because the old do not live by bread alone. They must have love. They must have their own about them to be happy. They have no interest in life except their children and what their children and grandchildren are doing and thinking, and when you take that able extent. For the most part, it is selfish and possessive and arrogant and impatient of control and rebellious at being bored, and that is what makes it regard having to take care of Grandma in her declining years as an affliction it does not rate.

MOST OLD FOLKS CRANKY

Of course, there are many exceptions to this rule. There are angelic old people who are so wise and sweet and delightful to live with that their mere presence is a benediction on any home, and whose children and children's children and even their in-laws cherish them and fight for the privilege of having them live with them. They cannot take on another mouth to feed, or find room for another in their over-crowded houses.

IN-LAW PROBLEM
Then there comes in the in-law difficulty. No married person is a free agent in domestic matters. John's wife can't get along with Mother. Percy's wife has social aspirations and simply won't have a homely old woman on the premises. Mother drives Sally's husband to drink by lecturing him on the evils of tobacco every time he lights a cigarette. Becky's husband refuses to have Mother around because he wants his house and his wife to himself, without any third party on the listening post.

So what's to be done with Mother? Mother can't change. She can't make herself over into a brilliant and scintillating conversationalist after she has been a simple babbling all of her life. She can't keep from being a repeater and telling the same old stories over and over again. She can't keep her fingers out of her children's pies, nor refrain from trying to run everybody around her. She can't keep silent about the way her grandchildren do. She is as she is and as age has made her.

And what are the son and daughter to do who see their homes being broken up by a dear, good old woman, whom they love and whom they would rather die than hurt, yet who cannot ignore their responsibility to their own families? Shall they let Grandma drive their husbands and wives away from them and their children to the streets? Or shall they shut their own doors on the poor old lady?

The comfortable family hotel, the nice boarding house, or a little apartment of her own seems the only logical solution of the situation when money does not have to be considered, but even that is not the answer, because the old do not live by bread alone. They must have love. They must have their own about them to be happy. They have no interest in life except their children and what their children and grandchildren are doing and thinking, and when you take that

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Hasenpfeffer is an old, old card game, a favorite with the sturdy pioneers who settled Canada. It is also the name of a delectable dish featuring rabbit. Combine the two and you have a wonderful idea for a novel party. Invite your friends for a Hasenpfeffer party, serve the rabbit-free meat dish for dinner and then spend the evening around the card table.

If you think your folks will not like Hasenpfeffer, just make it the way the chef advises in his book "Cooking a la Ritz."

RABBIT STEW

To marinate the meat: Clean the pieces of the meat and place at least 24 hours in a cold place in a mixture of 1 sliced onion, 1 sliced carrot, 1 clove garlic, 2 glasses white wine (or lemon juice and water), 2 bay leaves, 3 sprigs parsley, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, 1 tablespoon salt, 6 peppercorns and 2 tablespoons salad oil.

For cooking: 1 onion, chopped, 1 carrot, chopped, 1/2 cup salad oil, 1 clove garlic, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 pint red or white wine (or lemon juice and water), 1 to 2 cups water, 24 small onions glazed in a little fat, 24 small mushrooms, 1/2 cup sauteed bacon dice.

Drain meat from pickling liquor, season with salt and pepper and fry with the onion and carrot in the oil. When golden brown, skim off all the fat, add garlic and flour and cook a little longer to brown the flour. Add wine, drained pickling liquor and enough water to just about cover the meat. Bring to a boil, skim and cook for about 1 1/2 hours. Remove meat to another pan, skim the fat from the gravy, correct the seasoning and strain over the meat. Add onions, mushrooms and bacon dice and cook 1/2 hour longer or until meat is tender. Serve sprinkled with chopped parsley and garnished with toast.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Grapefruit, fried corned mush, crisp bacon, syrup or honey, coffee, milk for children.
Luncheon: Vegetable soup, soy sauce, crabs, toasted peanut butter and chili sauce sandwiches, canned fruit, tea, milk for children.
Dinner: Rabbit stew, with assorted vegetables, boiled potatoes, enriched bread, butter, tossed green salad, cranberry and raisin pie, coffee, milk for children.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERED

Parents are well aware that the use of "don't" works no miracles in changing the child's behavior. They know it, but still the word pops to their lips the moment the child acts in ways which displease them.

The word has little influence for though it endeavors to stop the behavior taking place, does not suggest anything more desirable in its place.

"Don't do that," mother says angrily, when she finds Tommy raiding the cupboard shelves and eating everything on the floor. "How can you be such a bad boy and cause mother so much trouble?" Obviously Tommy doesn't know why.

Had mother, seeing the interest with which Tommy was handling all those bright, enticing pots and pans, said instead, "Let's put them all back in the cupboard again. Do you think you could do that nicely?" Almost any Tommy would be sure he could.

To put back is to do something, often just as exciting an activity as pulling out. So back go the pots and pans, out they come, back they go, until all interest in them has been exhausted. It's much more sensible than trying to keep Tommy out of the kitchen, out of the cupboard, out of places into which we go so often and which he, as a member of the household, feels it his right to go, too. If we can't allow him to do it then omit the "don'ts" and put him where he can't do anything except what we permit him to do.

"Don't go in the street," is that paroling shot most runabouts receive when they are sent out to play. The don't is an easily forgotten handle, the impression that is most vivid is "go in the street." Most of them do go.

"Stay in the yard," would be a better preliminary to play and when the child did not, then end the playtime as a punishment for failing to heed this warning.

We can have much more success with any of our suggestions or commands if we remember to couch them in positive rather than negative terms. "Be sweet to Jerry." "You take this wagon and Teddy will take the truck." "Lift it up with your spoon."

One can get much better responses to those remarks than to suggestions such as, "Don't hit Jerry." "Don't take the truck from him." "Don't puddle in your food." Such suggestions inspire not better conduct but a sense of frustration and anger.

Our leaflet, "When the Child Says 'No,'" will give you some inkling of how to deal with his negativism. You may have it by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, requesting it.

Points for Parents

Mother: "Try whistling the chorus of that song while I sing it, will you, Billy?"

Mother: "If we don't talk, we can get through quicker. I hate to wash dishes, don't you?"

Gideon Planish

By Sinclair Lewis

DR. PLANISH kept from tacking Hamilton Frisby about the hegira till May, two weeks after his return to Chicago. Before the scene, he studied all the possible interpretations of his role: the tender and sensitive, the manly and courageous, the aloof and slightly amused, then decided upon the brusque man of business. In that mood he played to Frisby:

"Been making a lot of investigation and looking into things pretty sharply. We mustn't be prejudiced or sentimental. Much thought I like Chicago for the sake of usefulness. It's about time to move the Foundation headquarters to the Atlantic Seaboard. Like the proverbial homing pigeon!"

Frisby looked a him a long time. "Yes, I've been hearing from Chris Stern. So Chris and you think you can take this racket away from me! Planish, you're fired!"

"W-w-w." "Illegal? Of course it's illegal. But the directors eventually do what I tell 'em. You won't be re-elected at the annual meeting. So you have from now till summer to find a new job—if any, Planish, if any."

The two of them sat down to dinner with Peony—the compulsory self that told him he must speak and get it over, let her know that he was discharged, and the physical self that was so tired and timid it could scarcely lift his burden of confession.

When he spoke he dodged up a dozen alleys. He told her that he had gone out to Evanston, and that Dr. Kitto certainly wore a toupee. While she was giggling, "Let's throw him out of the Foundation," he was sharply calculating that he had no notion whatever about a new job, that he must be about $850 in debt, with some $375 in assets (he felt in his pocket and concluded that maybe he could add another dollar), and that his father-in-law had been pretty nasty about that last touch.

He said that the lawns in Evanston were full of daffodils, and she said that reminded her, they really must get busy and decide now where they would go for summer vacation—Northern Michigan, Vermont, Battle Lake in Minnesota?—and couldn't he take a couple of months off instead of one?—it was a shame the way those old dodges Kitton and Frisby bossed him—couldn't he get rid of them?

The serenely in her voice relieved his hesitation. He ended his confession with, "I guess I ought to be boiled in oil for endangering you and the baby this way."

Just then Peony could have played the perfect American wife, could have been sorry for herself and asked what good he was, if he couldn't take better care of her than that. For a moment she sat with the volubility of her smile checked. Then she laughed.

"It's a joke on me. Oh, toy-man, it's all my fault, being so 'stravagant'—that was so tired and timid Frisby to go to hell and start off

Miss Terese Fontaine Is Married To Joffre M. Dechene at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Sacred Heart church was the scene of a quiet wedding here at ten o'clock Saturday morning when Terese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fontaine, became the bride of Joffre M. Dechene, son of J. M. Dechene, M.P. for Athabasca, and Mrs. Dechene, of Bonnyville, Alta. The Rev. Lionel Scheffer officiated.

Paul Larose played the wedding music and the Rev. Father Martel sang during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length costume of turquoise blue, with matching hat with a veil. She carried tall-tan roses in shower.

Miss Lucille Fontaine was her sister's bridesmaid. Lt. Andre Dechene was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later the couple left for Montreal and the Laurentians. The bride travelled in a crimson suit with matching accessories, and a fur coat. On their return, they will take up residence in Hull.

The bridegroom was formerly a member of the editorial staff of The Edmonton Bulletin.

The Personal Column

The engagement has been announced of Miss Maya Mogensen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Mogensen of Edmonton, to Cpl. George Skov, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Skov, of Edmonton. The wedding will take place in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Calvert have returned from a brief wedding trip to Calgary. They were married last Wednesday in Wesley church. Mrs. Calvert is the former Miss Marjorie Metz.

Miss Ada Cheadle left Tuesday for Victoria where her marriage to Lt. Harris W. Howland, U.S.A.F., will take place Feb. 15. She will visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cheadle.

Kenneth Jamieson, R.C.A.F., is on leave from Patricia Bay, visiting with his parents, Col. and Mrs. F. C. Jamieson.

Mrs. Bryan MacDonald and Mrs. J. Houghton entertained at the tea hour Monday in honor of Mrs. L. Huston, who will leave the city shortly.

Because of weather conditions, the La Salle club's sleigh-ride, planned to be held recently, was temporarily postponed. Instead, games together with musical numbers and recitations by Messrs. Motul, Rinfret and Desrochers made the evening a success. The meeting was brought to a close by a sing-song and refreshments.

Mrs. E. Hollgren will be hostess, when the Central Lutheran Ladies' Aid holds its meeting on Thursday at the home of Mrs. L. Osberg, 10918 80 avenue.

Second of a series of five monthly dances sponsored by the Les Amies dance club, will be held Friday night in the Macdonald hotel.

Edmonton Old Time Residents Have 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stuart, 11333 80 street, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding on Wednesday last, when a number of intimate friends and relatives called at their home for a celebration.

The reception rooms were arranged with bouquets of daffodils, chrysanthemums, carnations and roses, and Mrs. Stuart was smartly attired in an informal frock of dusty rose complemented by a corsage of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart were married in 1894 at Inverness, Scotland, and came to Canada in 1911. Since that time they have lived in Edmonton and Calgary. Mr. Stewart was an architect and builder until his retirement, several years ago.

Of their five children, only two were able to be present at the golden wedding reception. They were Mrs. W. Potter of Vancouver, and D. J. Stuart of Calgary. The couple has four grandchildren.

Canada Answers Bermuda Request For Nurses

By FORD BAXTER

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 26.—(CP)—When King Edward VII Memorial Hospital here faced a serious emergency last summer because of a lack of nurses, the Canadian government allowed some of the Dominion's trained nurses to come to Bermuda. Since then 14 Canadian girls have arrived in the islands to take up a slack which was threatening the continued health of the community.

In a bastion like Bermuda it is a necessity to safeguard the health of the men in the armed forces by preventing disease among the civilian population. Therefore, the Canadian nurses are considered to be doing as important a war job as if they were at one of the active war fronts.

The situation was critical in July when Hal Butterfield, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, and Miss Elsie Outerbridge, matron, journeyed to the Dominion to plead for nurses.

In the ensuing months the following nurses joined the hospital's staff: Mary Kirchner, Irja Koski, Hilda Low, Mayne Wainey, Dorothy Smith, Mary Flavin, all of Toronto; Margaret Ross, Regina; Eva McBain, Montreal; Ella McMillan, Ottawa; Doris Keir, Coniston, Ont.; Madeline Stewart, Quelp, Ont.; Mildred Card, Dresden, Ont.; Doris Crawford, Hamilton, Ont.; and Florence MacDonald, Edmonton.

The first to reach Bermuda was Miss McMillan. She also was among the first 300 Canadian nurses to volunteer for service in South Africa in October, 1941.

One hundred and eleven men on the course are planning to attend.

Winnipeg Leads Salvage Work

By ENID V. NEMY

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Salvage is important. Winnipeg has proved it with a corps that is a model for all Canada. It has realized more than $238,000 from the sale of "waste" in little more than three years.

The brainchild of Mrs. Gordon Konantz, who turned a hospital plea for medicine bottles into an organization that now requires the services of between 4,000 and 5,000 volunteers, the Winnipeg Patriotic Salvage Corps is one of the best known on the continent.

The Corps' original "block captain" system is the one on which the Ottawa scheme is founded. A 10-day salvage display in a local department store attracted 100,000 people and has been taken over by the Dominion government to tour fairs across Canada.

Manitobans collect more than twice as much salvage as does the average Canadian. Much of the credit is due to the tireless efforts of Mrs. Jessie McLennan and her Volunteer Transport Corps, which George Wood, the manager, describes as "the toughest job in the Salvage Corps." The women, dressed in white uniforms with the Corps' insignia on the sleeve, operate 13 trucks and haven't broken the continuity of their pickups in two years.

"TREASURE SHIP"

This past summer the Corps instituted a "Treasure Ship" managed by Mrs. W. A. Rolands. Citizens were asked to make a sacrifice gift and the response was overwhelming. Contributions such as a Louis XIV. escritoire, valued at $600, a complete mahogany dining room suite, royal crown derby china, diamond rings, and antique sterling silver helped realize more than $11,700. The money was used to build a hostel in Halifax for the merchant navy.

Almost every charitable organization in Canada has benefited from the Corps. Eight mobile kitchens have been bought, trained workers for children in Great Britain supplied, Chinese and Russian Relief funds aided and generous contributions to Bundles for Britain and the Canadian Red Cross have been made.

The Corps has its amusing moments too. An irate husband once rushed down to enquire about the electric fireplace which his wife had donated without consulting him. The Corps sold it back to him. A man sent in a coffin because "someone else might need it before he did." In response to an appeal for furs, a woman sent in her dead collie dog; another a Christmas turkey that hadn't been eaten in time. A. E. Parker, president of the Corps, has suggested that during post-war years returned soldiers could earn their livelihood from salvage. This is no wishful thinking, he said. Winnipeg now supports four successful retail shops

Canada Must Be Aerial Highway

Canada must be more than the "crossroads" of the world in this age of aviation. It must become the aerial highway of the world, and astute planning and daring leadership will be required for that desirable state to be realized.

Canada has the factories in which to produce the finest equipment for the post-war aviation world and in the gallant young airmen and splendid mechanics now in the R.C.A.F., this nation has both the men and brains for the job.

These observations were made recently by Grant McConachie, general manager of C.P. Air Lines, Western Lines, in an address to the Advertising and Sales Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

War Labor Board Approves Agreement

The Alberta regional war labor board has approved of a new agreement signed recently between Swift Canadian Co. and members of the Packing Plant Employees' Union, Local No. 78, an affiliate of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. It was announced Wednesday.

The new agreement gives workers overtime pay after nine hours Monday to Friday inclusive, and after five hours on Saturday. The agreement calls also for payment of a night work premium of an extra five cents an hour for all work done between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Under the previous agreement overtime was paid after 10 hours per day, and over a weekly maximum of 50 hours. Now it is paid on a daily basis irrespective of the weekly maximum.

Negotiations are now being carried on by Local No. 78 with Canada Packers Ltd.

Decrease Noted in 'Idle' Farm Lands

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said yesterday the Dominion census of agriculture showed that the area of abandoned or idle farms in Canada in 1941 was 5,023,541 acres, compared with 5,289,166 in 1931, a reduction of five per cent. The number of these farms in 1941 was 32,518, 255 fewer than in 1931. The value placed on the land was $22,290,114, compared with $36,450,278, and on buildings $5,380,988, compared with $6,358,348.

Twins Again!

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Marion L. Myer, 23, was the mother of twins again yesterday, the second pair in 11 months. And her husband, 25, told interviewers his children now number six, the eldest five years old. Mrs. Myer said her father is a twin; his twin, her uncle, has two sets of twins, and she has twin aunts in Norway. But her latest twins break the family record. They're a boy and a girl. All the other sets have been of the same sex.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving. You may not know it, but in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat. First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations. Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love it. And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membrane, soothes the throat, makes breathing easy, and lets you breathe sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

OUT OUR WAY

Inquiry Opens Into Burning Car Fatality

The liquor vendors and later met Jenve at a city hotel. After purchasing a bottle of liquor at the vendors, they went to another hotel, arriving there about 2 p.m. and remaining there until closing time between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. Later they went to still a third hotel.

Jenve remained in the hotel while Herneck went out for something to eat, and, while in a cafe he met Charles Stack. They had a bottle of beer, and later, added the witness, Stack took them to a "shack". Five or six people were there, he said, as he told of Jenve, Stack and Irene Thomas, also charged with homicide, leaving to get some whiskey.

Ray Smith, Conquest, Sask. who said he had known Jenve since 1940, stated he met him about noon, Jan. 13. They went to a hotel, where they were for a drive in Jenve's car, and again to a hotel. Stack came to the room Jenve and Herneck had obtained, the latter then went with him to a shack on 97 street.

When Jenve and Stack left again, to get some rum from the hotel room, they remained away for about 15 minutes. When they returned, Irene Thomas accompanied them. Later, Jenve, Stack and Irene left to get some gin. That was the last time he saw Jenve, witness said.

William Garganzit told the jury that three men he didn't know came to his place on 97 street with Stack. He said he did not want people to stay at his place all night as he was sick, but everybody went out to find Jenve, Stack and Irene, as he "was afraid of an accident." The witness said he went home, and about 4 a.m., Jan. 14, Stack and Irene came in with a partially filled bottle, which they "killed". The latter two said they had ordered a taxi, and were excited, said the witness.

By the time a taxi did arrive, added Garganzit, the couple had left. They did not say where they got the liquor, he said, adding: "WERE 'FEELING GOOD'."

"They were feeling good; Irene was a little worse than Charley." Two employees of the city garage told of being asked to call a taxi for Stack and Irene. One, Basil Campbell, stated that a car near the gas tank prevented him from entering the garage with a bus, and he had asked that it be moved. He saw Stack beside the auto, and Irene inside it, he said. Stack and Irene remained at the garage, he said, but the auto was driven away.

Two taxi-drivers told of having Stack and Irene as passengers. Carl Degle told of picking them up at the city garage and taking them to a hotel, about four blocks distant. William Rogers, another driver, told of taking the couple from a Jasper avenue cafe to 97 street and 106 avenue; a stop had been made at another cafe at 97 street and 104 avenue. When he left them at their destination, he added, no arrangements were made for a taxi to pick them up again.

Charles Stack told of meeting Jenve at a hotel, where he was introduced by Herneck. He met Herneck at a cafe that evening, he added.

Stack said he left the hotel room to go to a party, and although he was not sure at the time, he went out to look up a fellow on 97 street.

"Bill (Garganzit) has his own house, and we wouldn't disturb anyone there," he said, adding that sometimes "we can't help making a noise."

Learning that Garganzit had nothing to drink, they went to Jenve's room for liquor, at which time the latter "expressed a desire for feminine company." Going to a cafe, they picked up Irene Thomas. They then returned to the Garganzit home.

DROVE RECKLESSLY

Stopping at the garage, he said he told Jenve he would get a taxi for Irene and himself.

After going to the cafe where he "did nothing exciting," continued Stack, Irene said she wanted some chop suey. The chop suey shop being closed, they ordered a taxi and went to another cafe.

Asked why he didn't walk, rather than order a taxi, the witness said he would rather pay 50 cents for a taxi than pay $200 of a fine for being intoxicated on the streets.

After leaving the cafe, Stack said he stopped at some 99 street rooms where he bought a bottle of brandy to take to Garganzit.

STARTED WALKING

When the taxi had ordered did not turn up, Stack said he and Irene started walking. It was then they saw the car across the street, and, thinking it was a taxi, he opened the right hand front door.

"The door was yanked out of my hand," he continued, saying it was the pressure of the smoke from within. As he ran down the street to telephone the fire department, he said, Irene shouted that there was somebody in the car.

He ran to a phone on a pole at 106 avenue, and found he had called the police in place of the fire department.

Returning to the auto, he said he found another man there, talking to Irene, and although he felt inside the auto, he could feel and see nothing for the smoke. He did not know even then it was Jenve's car, he said. He did not know there was anyone in

Annual Dinner

Memory of Immortal Bard
Toasted in Speech, Song
By Edmonton Burns Club

Sure by Tummel and Loch Rannoch
And Lochaber I will go,
By heather tracks wi' heaven in their wiles;
If it's thinkin' in your inner heart
Braggart's in my step,
You've never smelt the tangle o' the isles

As 65 members of the Edmonton Burns Club gathered in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday to toast in song and speech the memory of the immortal bard of Auld Scotia, Robert Burns, the spirit of the land of waving heather, bluebells and the wild lonely glens of Scotland seemed to descend over the gathering like a sweet, magic spell.

gree of mental development of which they are capable in whatever lines they show particular aptitude. Free access by state assistance to the higher institutions of learning should be made available to all whose intellectual capacity justifies it.

HEALTH

A healthy people is the greatest asset of any nation. To achieve this ideal we recommend, first, state medicine, including free hospitalization. State paid doctors, sufficient to take care of the entire population.

State assistance to students to enable them to take medical, dental or nursing courses. State paid and regulated undertaking service.

Extension of free clinics and development of preventative treatment of disease, research and education in nutrition.

FARM SANITATION AND HEATING

A very great need exists throughout the farm communities for better sanitary facilities such as water supply, modern bathroom within every home, septic tanks. Every farm home should be equipped with a modern heating system.

This modernizing of the farm home should be financed by government funds as a reconstruction project.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

There is a great need for electric light and power on Canadian farms. Canada has almost unlimited facilities for the generation of electrical power, we recommend:

1.—That a comprehensive plan for the electrification of the main settled areas of Alberta based upon a combination of hydro-electric and steam plants be prepared now.

2.—That the provincial government should develop this system as a public enterprise on the basis of service.

REFORESTATION

Our timber resources have been plundered in a wholesale way for profit without regard to the future, we recommend:

1.—A carefully planned policy of reforestation of lands which by their nature are more suitable for the growing of timber than agriculture.

2.—Better supervision of logging operations to prevent destruction of young timbers.

3.—Better fire protection.

SOIL CONSERVATION

The maintenance of soil fertility is of paramount importance to any nation while much might be said in regard to soil conservation, it should be realized that insufficient returns for agriculture products will not permit of practices necessary to maintain the fertility of the soil. Failing a parity price for farm products further degeneration of the soil is inevitable.

CROP INSURANCE

Farmers should be protected against the hazards of crop loss from uncontrollable causes. We recommend:

A comprehensive scheme of compulsory contributory crop insurance should be at once worked out and placed in operation.

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING

Your committee is interested in the principle of co-operative farming as offering opportunities of saving labor, of raising the standard of living in rural communities. We have studied some of the various plans advanced along this line.

We suggest that this subject deserves much further study and investigation than we have been able to give it and that its possibilities should not be overlooked in planning for the post-war world.

We recommend that the provincial government should establish an experimental community farm of a suitable size where costs and relative advantages of this type of farming could be studied and tabulated and made available to the public.

PARITY PRICES

The attainment of parity which means a right relationship of prices, has long been the ultimate objective of farm organizations.

If once obtained, this would give the farmer the means of providing for himself most of the things which we have asked for in this report.

Parity may be achieved in two ways, either by lowering costs of production or by raising prices. We should be untiring in our efforts to discover ways and means of lowering production costs and getting a larger portion of the consumer's dollar. Toward this end no effective means should be neglected.

Partnership
Of Young, Old
Is Said Need

There must be a partnership between the young generation and the older generation if the problems of youth are to be solved, R. E. G. Davis, director of the Canadian Youth Commission said Tuesday.

"Neither can solve the problems by themselves," he said, and they must be solved if we are to have the kind of society and kind of world we can and ought to have.

Addressing the 35th annual meeting of the Edmonton Young Men's Christian Association, Mr. Davis said that the Canadian Youth Commission has a two-fold aim.

Its aim is to "incorporate the best of the old with the best of the new."

Mr. Davis said that the ideas about the future are in the minds of young people. Youth has something to say, he continued, something that is important and constructive and they have earned the right to say it.

Reviewing the organization and aims of the commission, Mr. Davis said that "this new work, it seems to me, holds the promise of something very important in the future. The war has brought a changed status among the young people," he said.

Today, he said, youth is in a very stellar role in Canada's war effort.

One test of a civilization is the way it treats its young people, Mr. Davis said. "We have got to do better after the war in our program for youth. In the reconstruction in this country young people and their needs have got to be put on a priority listing."

For example, he said, "education should be a must... the improvement of our whole education system after the war is necessary in this country."

Surely one of the things we should aim for is a high school education as a minimum for everyone, he said.

However, he added, "this commission is not a utopia commission. We are trying to be direct and specific and to press for things that are manageable within the limits of our resources."

Areas for study have been selected over the country and the problems of youth to be considered are employment, education, health, recreation, religion, family and citizenship, he said.

He explained that the employment committee was divided into two parts. One committee is dealing with employment generally, recognizing that youth employment is part of the whole employment problem.

thinking of the specialists in the field as well as the ideals and aspirations of the oncoming generations of youth and it is reaching out to young people themselves to work with them and for them."
